ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

FINAL

Vol. 100. No. 57. (69th Year). ST. LOUIS, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1947—16 PAGES PRICE 5 CENTS

ZONING ORDINANCE BLIGHTING CITY'S RESIDENCE AREAS, PLAN BOARD SAYS

Report Cites 3 Major Conflicts in Land-Use Pattern and Asserts a Wholesale Overhauling Is Required.

The present St. Louis zoning ordinance, in effect for 21 years, is obsolete, inadequate and extremely poor, the City Plan Commission said yesterday in a preliminary report urging adoption of a new ordinance.

A study showed that commercial land use in the city expanded more rapidly than other uses from 1915 to 1935 but has contracted since then, the report said. Public and semi-public land use has declined in its percentage of occupied area from 30 in 1915 to 25 in 1945.

Industrial land use, the report continued, expanded moderately from 1915 to 1925 but has remained relatively constant since then. Residential land use expanded considerably from 1915 to 1935 but has grown very little since then. And the supply of vacant land is almost exhausted, being now only 14.7 per cent of the total area. Some vacant land lies along the river and is subject to flooding, and other areas are too rugged or are tunneled with clay mines.

In the older and more central sections of the city, the report pointed out, there are mixtures of residential, commercial and industrial uses of land. Three major conflicts in the land use pattern were found:

1. Smaller off-track industries scatter into older residence areas, instead of grouping in well-defined areas.

2. Apartment houses scatter into single-family districts, instead of grouping and creating their own beneficial environment.

3. Many stores and shops scatter into residence areas instead of grouping into well-defined centers.

These conflicts, the report noted, are found, for example, in the Lafayette neighborhood, where small industries are scattered throughout, multiple-family structures are found in almost every block, and stores and shops dot the area.

The greatly-reduced rate of growth of the combined residential, commercial and industrial land use was attributed in part to economic depression and war and in part to decentralization and a declining population growth. "It signifies a maturing, instead of an expanding, city," the report said.

Proposed Zones.

For the future, it is proposed that industrial zones be planned along railroads and adjacent to the central business district. Commercial zones would be along parts of important major streets and in locations serving residential neighborhoods.

Zones for residences would be arranged generally in belts of diminishing intensity around the business district. Apartment zones, the report continued, would occupy the close-in areas; two-family districts would surround the apartment areas, and these dis-

DENIES UAW OFFICERS WILL SIGN NON-RED AFFIDAVITS

R. J. Thomas Disputes Reuther Announcement and Says He Won't—Last-Minute Rush by Unions to Comply.

DETROIT, Nov. 1 (UP)—R. J. Thomas, vice president of the CIO United Auto Workers, denied today that top officers of the big auto union have agreed to sign non-Communist affidavits under the Taft-Hartley law.

Thomas disputed an announcement by UAW President Walter P. Reuther last night that the union's 22-man executive board had voted to comply with the Taft-Hartley law provision. Reuther's announcement was made seven hours before a midnight deadline set by the NLRB.

In telegrams to Paul Herzog, chairman, and Robert Denham, general counsel of the NLRB, Thomas asserted that newspaper stories "to the effect the UAW will sign Taft-Hartley affidavits are completely without basis in fact and without foundation."

Although Thomas's denial referred to the UAW at large, he said later he was speaking for himself in refusing to sign. However, he intimated that other officers on the board, presumably those who did not sustain the majority vote, also would refuse.

Thomas said that for all he knew the executive board may have cast a majority vote to sign, but said that he had voted no and would not sign.

Reuther had announced that a majority vote of the board to sign was reported to him by George F. Addes, union secretary-treasurer.

Addes and Thomas, together with Vice President Richard T. Leonard, have been locked in a bitter fight with Reuther to unseat Reuther as president when the union holds its convention at Atlantic City Nov. 9.

PRINCESS INVITING 100 'LITTLE PEOPLE' TO HER WEDDING

Former Governess, Industrial Workers, Employes on Royal Estates to Attend.

LONDON, Nov. 1 (AP) — The little people of Britain will have their place of honor along with hundreds of the world's illustrious at the wedding of Princess Elizabeth.

A Buckingham Palace source disclosed last night that a block of about 100 invitations had been reserved, by the Princess's own wish, for humbler guests drawn representatively from many walks of life.

Thus seats in Westminster Abbey Nov. 20 will be alloted to members of the auxiliary territorial service, which is similar to the American WAC; the Girl Guides and Sea Rangers, both organizations which Elizabeth has fostered officially, and to workers on the royal estates of Windsor, Sandringham and Balmoral.

A stalwart of the National Fire service, doubtless a veteran of the aerial siege of London, may be invited, and possibly one of the policemen who won a reputation for high courage under fire.

Industrial workers also will be represented, presumably by members of trade unions, one source said.

Two special seats have been assigned to Marian Crawford, the genial Scotswoman who was Princess Elizabeth's governess for years, and the man she married last summer.

Three reigning kings and another king without a throne head the list of nearly 30 royal personages who have accepted invitations, Buckingham Palace announced.

King Haakon of Norway, King Mihai of Romania and King Frederick and Queen Ingrid of Denmark, and the crownless King Peter and Queen Alexandra of Yugoslavia have accepted bids.

BAKERS DROPPING PROGRAM TO SAVE GRAIN BY SMALL LOAF

Their Machinery, Laws of Many States Govern Size, They Say.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1 (UP)—Spokesmen for the baking industry said today they had just about scrapped plans for smaller loaves of bread to conserve grain and warned that housewives must save most of the wheat the Government needs for European relief.

They said that farmers, millers, grain handlers and bakers were saving as much grain as humanly possible.

Fred Cobb, a Green Bay (Wis.) baker, said there was no prospect for cutting the size of bread loaves. He pointed out that bakers' pans and machineries were made for one-pound loaves, making the cost of reducing the loaves prohibitive, and that many states have laws which regulate the size and weight of bread.

Child Dies in Halloween Fire.

2 PEDDLER WOMEN ARE QUESTIONED IN FATAL STABBING

Pair Became Acquainted in Jail When Visiting Family Members Held in Killings.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 1 (UP)—Two women who admitted they became acquainted in jail while visiting relatives accused of murder were questioned today in the killing of Mrs. Mabel Merrifield, 68 years old, socially prominent clubwoman.

The women admitted they peddled notions in the neighborhood last Thursday, the day Mrs. Merrifield was found stabbed in her home.

Police announced the development as they sought a third suspect, a mysterious "woman in black."

The authorities said they were convinced Mrs. Merrifield was stabbed by woman as they arranged a flower setting in her isolated home near suburban Beech Grove. Police admitted they knew of no motive for the killing.

The women held gave their names as Mrs. Sally Johnson, 62, and Mrs. Sarah Mallett, 60. Mrs. Johnson said she was the wife of George Johnson, 60, held on a murder charge in the fatal shooting of Herman Longer in a labor union meeting dispute last January. Mrs. Mallett said she was the mother of Harry Stice, 44, charged with murder in the fatal beating of Olga Schwinn, 46, last May.

Both women were charged with vagrancy and peddling without a license.

Mrs. Merrifield's body was found on Halloween eve by her husband Hugh, well-known attorney and partner of a former Indianapolis mayor. Merrifield discovered the murder when he returned home

10 EX-NAZI OFFICERS TO DIE FOR 80,000 KILLINGS IN CAMP

WARSAW, Nov. 1 (AP) — A military court at Danzig sentenced to death today 10 former Nazi Elite Guard officers convicted of responsibility for killing 80,000 prisoners in the wartime concentration camp at Stutthof.

BERLIN, Nov. 1 (AP)—A Soviet military tribunal last night sentenced 14 former German SS (elite guard), officers and guards of the Sachsenhausen concentration camp to life imprisonment at hard labor. Two defendants were sentenced to 15 years imprisonment.

The accused, including the camp commander, Anton Kaindl, and his two deputies, were charged with having put to death 100,000 camp inmates and Russian prisoners of war.

Landlords First Get Plumbing Fixtures Then an Eviction Writ

Two tenants, who refused to move from their apartment at 7564 Wydown boulevard, Clayton, even after bathroom plumbing fixtures were removed, faced ouster today after their landlords obtained an eviction order in the court of Magistrate Taylor W. Strubinger at Clayton.

Miss Charlotte Monti, who lives in the six-room first-floor apartment with her 83-year-old mother, Mrs. Martin Monti Sr., told the court that last March their landlords had removed the fixtures from a tub in one bathroom and a washstand in the other bathroom.

The landlords, Fred Rathert, 72, and his son, Dr. Norman Rathert, a dentist, replied that the fixtures needed replacement, but they were unable to buy new ones after the old fixtures had been taken out. After removing the fixtures, they pointed out, they lowered the rent from $100 to $90 a month.

Fred Rathert testified he wanted the Montis' apartment because he no longer was able to climb the stairs to his present third-floor apartment next door at 7560 Wydown. He had suggested that they trade, but Miss Monti pointed out that her mother couldn't climb the stairs either. Dr. Norman Rathert lives on the first floor at 7560. Miss Monti announced she would appeal.

U.S. CONSIDERING DOLLAR AID UNDER MARSHALL PLAN AS WELL AS GOODS

Once-Discarded Idea Now Backed by Italy, France — Foreign Relief Since War Totals 19 Billions.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (AP)—Administration officials are considering making dollars available to western Europe under the Marshall plan as well as needed food, fuel and reconstruction supplies, it was disclosed last night.

Government authorities examining a report submitted for American approval by 16 European nations said this plan is being weighed by inter-governmental agencies as a means of hastening the revival of European trade.

The Administration officials working on European aid plans, meanwhile received a congressional estimate that the United States has already poured between $19,000,000,000 and $20,000,000,000 into foreign relief since V-E and V-J day.

The estimate, announced by chairman Byrd (Dem.), Virginia, of a joint congressional committee, does not take into account the multi-billion dollar outlay contemplated under the Marshall plan. Byrd said in a statement, however, that it does include nearly $60,000,000 "earmarked for Russia and her satellites."

Deadlock on Dollar Aid.

The suggestion that dollar aid be granted was advanced by the Belgium and Dutch governments at the 16-nation Paris conference last August but failed to meet with the approval of other representatives. Since then, however, it is understood that Italian and French authorities are favorably inclined toward it.

The text of the proposal was released by the State Department as part of the 551-page second volume to the Paris report. It consisted mainly of tables and reports documenting conclusions published earlier which called for $22,440,000,000 in outside assistance from 1948 through 1951.

The original Belgian-Dutch proposal suggested that some part of American aid should take the form of dollars which could be used, first in making payments for goods supplied by one of the participating countries (including western Germany). Subsequently the dollars could be used by the country which receives such payments, to cover supplies from the American continent.

"It is clear," the report said, "that if one of the participating countries has coal or steel which it is able and ready to sell to another participating country the latter should not be compelled by payment difficulties to refrain from buying steel or coal from a participating country and be forced to continue to buy them from the United States."

Senator Byrd, in reporting on

MOOSE AUXILIARY BABY CONTEST RUNS INTO RACIAL STIR

CASPER, Wyo., Nov. 1 (UP)—The ladies of the Moose in Casper were swamped with indignant protests today because two Negro mothers charged that the auxiliary barred their children from a baby contest.

Mrs. Roscoe Howard and Mrs. Effie Mae Gray said their babies had been barred. Protests began to pour in as the bar became publicized.

One white mother, whose baby was entered in the contest, said she planned to organize other mothers to pool votes for 3-year-old Ronald Gray and demand his reinstatement in the contest.

Waldo Hurley, president of the Casper United Veterans Council, said the organization would investigate the alleged discrimination.

Burt Johnson of Casper, Moose district governor, said the lodge was investigating, but added that the Moose lodge had no connection with the baby contest. He said the lodge was "in effect" sponsor of the women's auxiliary, but that it had no connection with the local or regional Moose organization.

Mrs. Gray said that her son, Ronald, first was accepted as a contestant, following an invitation, and she had sold tickets which would have brought him votes toward the prizes, including cups and plaques.

The money was given back to her after the bar, she said, and she returned it to the people who bought chances from her.

STRONG QUAKE SHAKES LIMA AND WIDE SECTION OF PERU

LIMA, Nov. 1 (AP)—A strong earthquake shook Lima, capital of Peru, today and extended over a wide section of the country. However, no fatalities were reported here.

Two children were injured severely at Huancayo, 115 miles east of Lima, when they apparently were trampled by All Saints' day worshippers fleeing from a cathedral. The walls of Huancayo buildings were cracked.

SLAV BLOC BEATEN AGAIN, REDS ASSAIL U.N. 'MECHANICAL MAJORITY' VOTES

Assembly Rejects 'War Criminals' Proposal, 40 to 7 — British Reported Flatly Against U.S. Palestine Plan.

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (AP) — Soviet resentment in the United Nations General Assembly against repeated drubbings by the what Russia termed "mechanical majorities" of the United States and Britain raised an obstacle today in the path of the small countries trying to reconcile big power differences.

The most pronounced Russian reaction yet registered in the U.N. to the steady parade of Soviet bloc defeats came last night in debate on a revived Yugoslav resolution which would have the effect of accusing the United States and Britain of harboring war criminals in the occupied zones of Europe.

The Assembly, backing up a previous adverse decision by its Legal Committee, rejected the proposal, 40 to 7, then approved a British resolution, 42 to 7, which requires governments desiring the surrender of war criminals to present adequate evidence as to their guilt.

Blast by Vishinsky.

Preceding the vote, Russian Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky took the Assembly floor to urge approval of the Yugoslav resolution. Recognizing that the majority would be against him, Vishinsky said:

"Any resolution submitted by a minority group is always summarily rejected. Everything submitted by a group which is inspired by the United States and by the United Kingdom is good; it is raised on a shield and immediately whirled through the Assembly by a majority vote.

"We are very well aware of that, but we are not confused by it. We are not afraid of it and it will not stop us in our struggle for justice, truth and equity and in the struggle for our right as a minority to see to it that white is called white and that white is not called black."

As he ended, Vishinsky charged that the United States and Britain were trying to "railroad" the resolution through with "your mechanical majorities."

U. S. Palestine Proposal.

At Lake Success there were indications that the United States proposal for creation of sovereign Arab and Jewish nations in Palestine by next July 1 hinged on British, Arab and Russian acceptance. The plan was presented yesterday to the Palestine subcommittee which is drawing up a concrete proposal for the Assembly's 57-member special Palestine Committee.

BRITON'S DRIVING RATIONED ALONG WITH SPOT O' TEA

LONDON, Nov. 1 (AP)—Britons grudgingly gave up another of their pleasures today, foregoing private motoring to save dollars by saving gasoline.

Under the British government's latest austerity order, effective last midnight, a private citizen can't drive his car at all, except on "essential business."

Officials estimate the order will save approximately 9,000,000 pounds ($36,000,000) a year of dwindling dollar credits.

A few hours before the deadline, motorists — armed with cans, saucepans and even jugs—jammed filling stations, determined to get every drop of their ration.

"They tell me," one attendant said, "they are going to take the last drop they are entitled to and intend to put the petrol in bottles when they get home."

Effect of the travel bar will be to confine the Briton more closely to his unheated home where once he could find some solace in an extra serving of tea.

Now there isn't enough tea, either. That ration recently was cut to half a pound a month—inadequate for the inhabitants of this nation of traditional tea drinkers.

6 IN FAMILY KILLED WHEN PRIVATE PLANE CRASHES

Jennings (La.) Group Struck Storm En Route to Texas Relative's Funeral.

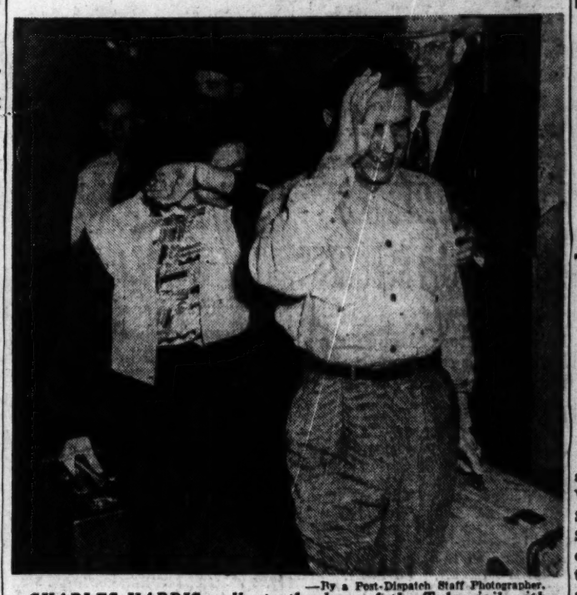

JENNINGS, La., Nov. 1 (AP)—Six members of a family were killed yesterday in a crash of the family's private plane near Kinder, La. They were en route to Kilgore, Tex., to attend a relative's funeral.

The dead are Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Walker, their two baby daughters, Mrs. Walker's father, Lawrence Green, and J. D. Green, Mrs. Walker's brother. They were from Jennings.

The plane reportedly ran into a thunderstorm.

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

HARRIS PICTURED AS 'FINGER MAN' IN PLOT TO WIPE OUT COMPETITOR

Those Who Contributed to Fund Are Said to Be Operating St. Clair and Madison County Games.

Four gangsters from St. Louis and East St. Louis were sent into Wayne county, Illinois, to kill Carl Shelton, notorious gang leader, by St. Louis area gamblers who wanted to take over Shelton's lucrative gambling holdings in southern and eastern Illinois, the Post-Dispatch was told today.

Reports have been received that Shelton interests blocked expansion programs of some gamblers and representatives of the old Capone gang in Chicago. Four of these gamblers are said to have established a fund of $20,000 to be distributed among the killers after Shelton was murdered.

Those who contributed to the fund are now operating dice games and gambling casinos in St. Clair and Madison counties. Shelton's interests in gambling, it was said, covered the area of the state to the east of these counties, from Peoria in the north to the southern tip of the state and into a small section of Kentucky. East Side gamblers, therefore, were surrounded by Shelton's interests and were unable to expand.

Reported "Finger Man."

Charles Harris, a neighbor of Shelton and a former convict, was reported to have been the "finger man" for the imported hoodlums, Sheriff Hal Bradshaw of Wayne county was scheduled to return Harris from Tulsa, Okla., to Illinois today. Harris, who was seen at the ambush on Pond Creek road last Oct. 23, was arrested in Tulsa on a warrant issued by Coroner Walter A. Young. With him when arrested was his niece, Miss Beatrice (Jakie) Bell, who was released from custody yesterday.

Seen by a Post-Dispatch reporter in his third tier cell at the Tulsa City jail today, Harris said he knew nothing about any fund collected for the murder of Shelton. Asked where he got the $508 found in his possession when arrested, he said, "Well, I'm self-supporting." In an affable mood, Harris said he planned to try to get out of jail on bond after he is returned to Illinois.

State's Attorney Virgil W. Mills of Wayne county told the Post-Dispatch that witnesses have informed him they saw a black Ford club coupe with a sun visor two miles south of the scene of the shooting shortly after it occurred.

There were four men in the automobile, witnesses said. The driver was reported to have been a "very large man, with huge shoulders, who seemed to dwarf the other passengers," Mills said. A description of another occupant answers that of a notorious St. Louis gangster. Pictures of the gangster will be shown the witnesses next week, Mills said.

Story of Another Witness.

Mills said another witness came to his office in Fairfield and told of seeing the same machine on Pond Creek road three weeks before the murder. This witness's description of the men in the machine tallied with that of the other witness, Mills told the Post-Dispatch.

Illinois Highway Patrolmen working on the case with Mills advanced the theory that the presence of the men in the automobile on Pond Creek road at that time indicated an effort to murder Carl Shelton. It turned out to be an abortive attempt, however, because Shelton was called to Peoria on business about some oil land leases and did not return home for a week. He had been home from Peoria a little more than a week when the ambush succeeded.

Highway patrolmen, familiar with the area in Wayne county where the Sheltons lived and where Harris was reared, said the scene of the ambush of Shelton was one of the most perfect spots that could have been selected.

For this reason, they said, they believed that a native of the area chose the spot.

Harris's Nephew Beaten.

Ill feeling between Harris and Carl Shelton was touched off last spring when Virgil Vaughn, a nephew of Harris, was beaten by Ray Walker, a Shelton lieutenant, and "Little Earl" Shelton, nephew of the gang leader, after some of

INDIA FLIES IN TROOPS TO SAVE KASHMIR CAPITAL

By DONALD HUTH

NEW DELHI, Nov. 1 (AP)—Royal Air Force observers say that armed Pathan Moslems swarming into the princely state of Kashmir are advancing in such strength as to threaten the capital of Srinigar.

One R.A.F. informant said after flying in last night that truckloads of Indian reinforcements were being rushed to the front, less than 20 miles west of Srinigar. The Indian Government also is sending troops, ammunition and supplies in requisitioned civilian planes to Srinigar's small airport, which has taken on the aspect of an advanced base of operations.

With the approach of winter, loss of the airfield would be a serious blow to Indian and Kashmir state troops. If it fell it might mean the loss of the entire Kashmir valley. The nearest landing field is at Jammu, outside the valley, near the south border of Kashmir and far from the field of operations.

A pall of dust hovering over the airstrip makes landing difficult for the steady stream of planes arriving from New Delhi. Pilots are often forced to make two or three passes before they are able to see the runway.

The Indian Government—which previously had flown in two battalions of Sikh regulars to defend Kashmir — announced last night that the situation remained unchanged in the predominantly Moslem state, whose Hindu maharajah acceded to the union of India last weekend. The communique added that additional reinforcements were being dispatched.

Seven R.A.F. planes yesterday completed the evacuation of all Britons who want to leave Kashmir.

MANIU ADMITS SOUNDING U.S. ON CABINET IN EXILE

Confronted by Interpreter He Changes Testimony —Says He Only Contemplated Move.

By LEONARD KIRSCHEN

BUCHAREST, Nov. 1 (AP)—The military tribunal trying Juliu Maniu and 18 others on treason charges ruled today that further questioning of the defendants would be delayed until later and that the trial would proceed by hearing the testimony of 59 prosecution witnesses.

Maniu, leader of the Romanian National Peasant party, and other defendants had protested that they had not had enough time to prepare their defenses.

Maniu, who denied all day yesterday that he had informed the United States political representative, Burton Y. Berry, of his intention to form a Romanian resistance government abroad, admitted late last night that he had in fact made such a statement.

The president of the court ordered Vasile Serdici, another defendant, to confront Maniu and Serdici declared that as an interpreter he had relayed such a statement from Maniu to Berry. Maniu then conceded that he had made the statement. But, he added, he had only contemplated such a move and wanted Berry's advice concerning the official United States attitude toward the project.

In his previous testimony, Maniu denied any such conversation with Berry and also denied that he had organized a national resistance movement, as he is charged with doing.

Serdici, press chief of the National Peasant party, testified earlier in the day that Maniu had asked the British last March to apply pressure to oust the Communist-backed government of Premier Petru Groza.

Earlier, a fantastic secret plan for reorganization of the Romanian army, to be used for eventual resistance against the Russians,

Seance Gets a Ring From 'Harry'; It's Not Voice of Houdini's Ghost

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (UP) — Seven men waited in total darkness for 50 minutes past midnight today for the ghose of Harry Houdini to return. All they received was a telephone call from a Halloween prankster.

The greatest magician of them all died 20 years ago on Halloween, but before he died he promised to return on the anniversary of his death.

Houdini left a secret list of 10 words and said those would be the key to prove he had unlocked the barrier between the spirit world and the living.

The "Waiting for Houdini" committee, headed by Magician Joseph Dunninger, met for the annual seance in a secret office in one of Manhattan's skyscrapers. There was a buzzer sensitive enough for the pressure of a spirit hand, a delicate scales under a glass dome which could be set off balance by the touch of a ghost and a blackboard with a piece of chalk for a wraith to write on.

"Not a thing happened," Dunninger reported. "Our sensitive buzzer didn't buzz, a set of delicate scales didn't move and the blackboard remained blank."

At one point in the seance, Dunninger said, the phone rang.

"Hello, this is Harry," a man's voice said over the phone.

"But it was just a prankster," Dunninger said. "Whoever it was didn't know the secret words."

Houdini died in Detroit in 1927. He was demonstrating his perfect physical condition and invited a friend to punch him in the abdomen. The blow burst his appendix and he died shortly after. He left $10,000 to be paid to any person who comes up with the correct 10 words.

LABOR DISPUTES CITED IN HEARING ON HIGH COST OF ALASKA FREIGHT

By RICHARD L. NEUBERGER
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 1—Labor's responsibility for the highest ocean freight rates under the American flag was the principal issue Thursday as United States Maritime Commission hearings into the Alaskan shipping situation neared a close.

Operators of vessels in the North Pacific trade described rising labor costs and arbitrary work stoppages as "our major difficulty." CIO officers retaliated with charges against the operators of monopolistic practices, inefficient methods of handling cargo and deliberate padding of costs.

C. W. Robinson, chief federal examiner at the hearing, said any decision would be reserved until a considerable time after the inquiry board returns to Washington, D.C. The territory of Alaska seeks to have set aside recent rate increases which are 68 per cent above the 1941 level.

Profound differences separated capital and labor as each attempted to avoid liability for freight rates which Alaskans claim cost every person in the north $130 annually. Figures released by George Sundborg, manager of the Alaska Development Board, shows that food is 35 per cent more expensive in Sitka than in Seattle, 47 per cent more expensive on Kodiak island and 51 per cent higher in Fairbanks.

Stevedores' Complaint.

Germaine Bulcke, vice president of the CIO Longshoremens' Union contended Alaskan ships were loaded "like Fibber McGee's closet." He said stevedoring crews had to probe through holds to find the proper cargo for each port. He said ships were so bunched alongside Alaskan wharves, where unloading is complicated by 25-foot tides, that men had to work 24 hours at a stretch.

"The average annual earning of an Alaskan longshoreman," said Bulcke, "is $2500. In view of the terrific cost of living in Alaska, these men must find additional employment in order to support their families."

He asserted that Gilbert W. Skinner, 50-year-old Seattle salmon broker who operates most of the vessels in the Alaskan trade, has "more political influence with the Maritime Commission than have the 90,000 residents of Alaska." Eden contended that boats which the Alaska Steamship Co. obtains from the government for $1 a year, under terms of the Maritime Commission subsidy, have been leased to military contractors for "lush profits."

Although no figures were disclosed, it was made obvious at the hearings that a large proportion of present cargo bound for Alaska seaports is consigned to Army and Navy undertakings, particularly in the vicinity of Fairbanks.

Zeusler Report on Labor.

The CIO sought to refute charges against maritime labor in Alaska voiced by a recent committee headed by Adm. F. A. Zeusler, retired Coast Guard commander in the territory. The report blamed unions for 48 unauthorized tieups in Alaska during a single year.

The Zeusler report maintained that able-bodied seamen in Alaskan waters now receive wages which are 72 per cent above prewar levels.

The attitude of the Alaskans at the hearing made evident the fact that they concur in many of the labor charges against the steamship operators and in some of the charges of the operators against labor.

Lower Passenger Fare Rise.

The monopoly aspects of North Pacific shipping were emphasized when Donald J. O'Connor, economist for the territory, pointed out that while freight rates have been increased 68 per cent since 1941, passenger fares on the same boats are up only 21 per cent.

"On passenger traffic," said O'Connor, "there is competition from the airlines, and in southeastern Alaska from three Canadian companies—Canadian Pacific, Canadian National and Union. However, the Canadian boats are forbidden to carry freight, so Alaskan freight rates are boosted to the skies."

Dispute on Barge Service.

Considerable controversy surrounded the proposed new barge service between Puget Sound and Alaska. Skinner said his Alaska Steamship Co. would face "serious loss of revenue" if the barge line proves successful. However, Alaskans emphasized the fact that Alaska freight express, as the barge operation is known, plans to undercut present rates 35 per cent and to accomplish this without the $4,000,000 federal subsidy now received by the three steamship companies plying northward out of Seattle.

POPE SUGGESTS U.S. ADMIT WAR REFUGEES

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 1 (AP)—Pope Pius XII has suggested to visiting United States Senators that they consider revision of American immigration laws to admit war sufferers.

The Vatican released today the text of remarks the Pope made yesterday to Senators Forrest C. Donnell (Rep.), Missouri, and Harry C. Cain (Rep.), Washington, in which the Pope declared that immigration today "presents entirely new problems."

"As always the welfare of the country must be considered as well as the interests of the individual seeking to enter and, in the nature of things circumstances will at times dictate a law of restriction," he said. "But, by the same token, circumstances at times will almost cry out for an easing of the application of that law. Wise legislation will ever be conscious of humanity and the calamities, distress and woes to which it is heir."

The Pope cited the "vital part" immigrants have played in America's development as "incontrovertible proof that the peoples of many nations and races can live as neighbors and work together in an orderly, peaceful and prosperous society."

Donnell and Cain, now in Geneva, Switzerland, are members of a Senate committee investigating the problem of displaced persons.

The Pope received five other Senators today and told them the word peace rings "hollow today over the fields of famine and devastation and oppression."

Peace, he told members of the Senate Appropriations Committee, headed by Styles Bridges (Rep.) New Hampshire, "surely is something more than the mere absence of armed warfare and shedding of blood."

Noting that the Senators "have been recalled to the seat of your government for a task of momentous importance to Europe and the world," the Pope said:

"May we suggest that even the wise and prompt accomplishment of that task be considered only a step toward the coveted goal. "The cry that reaches one's ears . . . from every corner is not the cry for passing help, though that is essential, but the cry for peace," he declared.

RAMADIER ADDS 3 MEMBERS TO HIS COALITION CABINET

PARIS, Nov. 1 (AP)—Socialist Premier Paul Ramadier added three new members to his middle-of-the-road coalition Cabinet today—a Popular Republican, a Radical Socialist and a member of the leftist Democratic and Socialist Union of Resistance (UDSR).

Andre Marosselli was named Secretary of State for the Armed Forces. He is a Radical Socialist. Jean Letourneau will be Secretary of State for Reconstruction and Town Planning. He is a Popular Republican. Albert Forcinal, Secretary of State for War Veterans and Victims of War, is a member of the UDSR.

The Cabinet, which Ramadier streamlined on Oct. 23 by trimming the membership from 25 to 13, won a vote of confidence in the National Assembly Thursday, 300 to 280. Its composition now is seven Socialists, four Popular Republicans, three Radical Socialists, a member of the UDSR and a Rightist Independent.

PANAMA CABINET RESIGNS

PANAMA, Nov. 1 (AP) — The Cabinet resigned yesterday to leave President Enrique Adolfo Jimenez free to reorganize his government when the time comes to sign an agreement with the United States on Canal defense bases in Panama. The President, however, asked the Ministers to remain in office until need for reorganization should arise.

Earlier, the Cabinet unanimously approved Panama's reply to the latest United States proposal in regard to the controversial 20,000-acre Rio Hato air base. The contents were not disclosed.

Army Recruiters Re-enlist.

JOLIET, Ill., Nov. 1 (UP)—Members of the Army recruiting office here did such a good job extolling the service that they sold themselves. The entire eight-man staff re-enlisted yesterday for five years. They were headed by Capt. T. Byrne, commanding officer.

HIGH TIDE FLOODS LA GUARDIA AIRPORT THREE FEET IN SPOTS

Water Then Recedes and Operations Are Normal After Rain and High Seas.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (UP)—LaGuardia airport officials reported flight operations were back to normal today after rains and a high tide had flooded the field three feet deep in spots yesterday and last night.

Some flights had been canceled and others transferred to Newark (N.J.) airport when Flushing bay rose an estimated 10 feet and covered three of the four main runways at the low-lying airport.

New York and Connecticut areas bordering Long Island sound were inundated at numerous points. Residents compared the high tides to those of the hurricane of 1938.

At New Rochelle, N.Y., an 18-foot sloop was tossed over the sea wall. At Fort Wadsworth, Staten Island, the tanker Fullerton Hills was driven aground by the 35-mile-an-hour winds.

was read to the court. In it the Russians were referred to as "Germans."

Col. Stefan Stoica, a defendant, denied knowledge of the plan from the witness stand. Stoica formerly was secretary general of the military production ministry under Ion Antonescu, who ruled Romania under the Germans.

The court president said the copy of the plan on file had a notation in Stoica's handwriting mentioning that the plan was to be given to Serdici. Stoica replied, that might have been the case.

The plan read in court contained suggestions in regard to infantry and artillery, proposed that tank and motorized troops be camouflaged in transport companies and suggested that workers be sent abroad for training in armament factories.

The trial is in its fourth day. The maximum penalty upon conviction is life imprisonment.

for today Governor General Mahomed Ali Jinnah and Premier Liaquat Ali Khan of Pakistan are expected to confer with Governor General Lord Mountbatten and Premier Jawaharlal Nehru of India. It is expected that India will propose that Pakistan close the roads into Kashmir blocking reinforcement for the irregular invaders.

Meanwhile, correspondents protested against an Indian order barring them entry into Kashmir. They said it was tantamount to censorship of news about the fighting. A military spokesman said the Government has issued orders that no one be allowed to enter Srinigar without a pass and that these passes would not be issued to newspaper men.

PIPER CUB PILOTS REACH ADAK IN ALEUTIANS HOP

ADAK, Aleutian Islands, Nov. 1 (UP)—The round-the-world flyers, George Truman and Clifford Evans, awaited favorable weather today before taking off in their Piper Cub planes for the 1300 miles to anchorage on the Alaskan mainland.

The two landed here within minutes of each other about 3:50 p.m. yesterday after a three hour and 25-minute flight from Shemya, one of the westernmost islands of the storm-ridden Aleutian chain.

Evans said the flight here was more exciting than the 1500-mile trans-Pacific hop from Japan. "We got caught in a bad weather front, lost our B-17 escort and finally lost each other," he said. "Then our heavily-loaded planes began to ice. It looked bad for a while but the weather cleared and we got together again."

PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 1 (AP) — Capt. John Hulme of Boston, Mass., has been appointed temporary governor of the Marshall Islands, succeeding Commodore George A. Seitz, who died Oct. 24.

$53,586 LIQUOR CACHE FOUND IN OKLAHOMA

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 1 (AP) —Oklahoma police officers last night uncovered an elaborate underground cave containing liquor valued at $53,586 in one of the largest anti-liquor raids conducted in this legally dry state.

The underground vault in which the 496 cases of whisky were stored, was found seven and one-half miles south of Guthrie. The cement-lined cave, excavated under a barn filled with straw, was equipped with an automatic hydraulic lift and measured 40 feet by 20 feet and was about 12 feet high.

Grady Muse and Percy Borden, Oklahoma City detectives, said the raid, for them, ended three weeks of intensive investigation. They said they had followed known whisky delivery men to the vicinity of the barn several times.

Acting on information provided by Borden and Muse, L. J. Hilbert, Oklahoma City police chief, called on state officials to aid in the raid.

The barn is located on land owned by N. C. Miller. Miller said he had leased the building to Buford Marsh. Oklahoma county officers said Marsh has a police record of liquor law violations.

Entrance to the underground cache was the cement and steel top of a hydraulic lift which fitted even with the concrete floor of the barn. The top of the lift was covered with straw bales when the officers arrived.

Difficulty in locating a valve which operated the lift kept the railers from entering the cave for nearly six hours.

The officers said cases of whisky took up more than half the room.

Officers found a set of books in the cave containing figures on the number of cases which had been shipped in and out of the cave during the last three months.

BIRMINGHAM POLICE SEEK JEWEL THIEVES IN ST. LOUIS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 1 (UP)—Police today extended the hunt for five or six clever jewel thieves to St. Louis after the 15-year-old daughter of jewelry store proprietor, who lost between $80,000 and $100,000 in gems Thursday, said the robbers mentioned St. Louis "several times."

Mary Arline Perry, daughter of Louis W. Perry, gave police the only substantial clew to the robbery, telling Chief C. Floyd Eddins that she didn't think the men were from Birmingham.

The girl, bravely answered two telephone calls and conversed with her schoolmates while three of the robbers held a .45-caliber pistol pointed at her ill mother.

The bandits came to the Perry home Thursday before Perry came home from work, and forced Mrs. Perry to give them the combination to the safe in Perry's jewelry store. When Perry arrived, they overpowered him, took his keys and sent members of their band to rifle the store in plain view of sidewalk strollers. They escaped in Perry's car, which was later found.

GENERAL DENIES 'BRASS CURTAIN' BY TRIESTE ARMY

Commander in Reply to Bennett Says All Casualties Have Been Fully Reported.

By GEORGE H. HALL
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 — Maj. Gen. Bryant E. Moore, American commander at Trieste, emphatically denied yesterday there ever had been a "brass curtain" of Army censorship in Trieste as charged by Representative Marion Bennett, (Rep.), Missouri.

He acknowledged there had been casualties among American occupying forces, but asserted they were fully reported in the press at the time of their occurrence and were no more serious than were to be xpecteed under the circumstances.

Visited by Bennett.

Bennett, who recently visited Europe on a Congressional tour, charged that there had been "63 incidents of armed aggression by the Communists" against United States forces in the free territory. (The Eighty-eighth Division is the occupying force. He said in Springfield, Mo., yesterday, before issuance of Gen. Moore's statement by Army Public Relations here, that he would "stick by my guns until the Army either confirms or denies the assertion.")

"It is true," said Gen. Moore, "that since September 1945 two enlisted men have been killed and several officers and enlisted men have been wounded in this area, as reported in a previous message. All these incidents were given press coverage at the time they occurred.

"There has never been a 'brass curtain' in this area. Neither these nor any other incidents have been withheld from news media representatives in my area. It is highly regrettable that these incidents, which must be considered as not unusual in an occupied area, have been distorted to present an erroneous picture either of unusual violence or of military censorship. I have not issued nor authorized any statement to the press on this controversy nor the Bennett statement."

Casualties Listed Earlier.

In an earlier message the United States Commander had listed the casualties (other than the five airmen shot down over Yugoslav territory in August) as follows:

1. Pfc. William J. Shinn, shot and killed by two Zone B civil police in Zone A near Montespino, Dec. 24, 1945.

2. Pfc. Walter L. Kuhja, ambushed and killed in his jeep in vicinity of Lake Doberdo, July 16, 1946.

First Lt. William Van Attan and T-5 Jack D. Klingman were injured when the jeep Kuhja was driving went out of control when Klingman was killed. Persons doing the killing unknown.

3. Three American officers, known as military police, were injured by a grenade thrown at the American jeep in Trieste on June 30, 1946. This grenade was thrown from a Communist crowd.

4. Seven United States Military Police were wounded by grenade fragments during an illegal Communist-sponsored civilian demonstration in Trieste Sept. 8, 1946.

5. On July 12, 1946 a Yugo-Slav patrol entered Zone A and fired into an American patrol. The American patrol returned the fire and killed two Yugo-Slavs.

6. Other incidents of motor vehicles being fired at, four of which were hit, have occurred.

"All Reported to Press."

"All these incidents were reported to Mediterranean theater headquarters and were given to the United States press through public information offices. In addition, the majority of all these cases were covered directly by major papers and press wire services of the United States who have kept this area well covered by both correspondents and photographers since September 1945.

"Neither headquarters Eighty-eighth Division, headquarters Trieste theater, or headquarters Mediterranean theater has ever withheld any information in regard to serious incidents which have occurred in the Trieste-Venezia Giulia area during the occupation period commencing Sept. 1, 1945. No information of any serious incident has ever been withheld from the press, but each such incident has been given full coverage. No expression such as 'cold war' has been used by members of this force."

Definite Report on European Aid Expected From Harriman Group

Committee Members Agree That Marshall Plan Should Be Operated by New Agency —Stassen's Proposal Rejected.

By STEWART ALSOP
(Copyright 1947.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1—Secretary of Commerce Averell Harriman's "Committee of Nineteen" is edging up to its deadline.

The committee's report on aid to Europe will be published within the next few days. Obviously, the report will have an important impact on American foreign policy. With its publication, the Marshall plan will become, for the first time, in fact a plan. And the report will be the real starting point of the great debate on both interim aid to western Europe and the Marshall plan as a whole.

Even as the deadline approaches, certain issues remain unresolved within the committee. Even so, advance reports are sufficient to indicate that the committee is about to give birth to a pretty remarkable document. It will include specific recommendations for the American part in the great task of European rehabilitation. And it will be free of the meaningless gobbledegook which usually afflicts the combined effort of a large number of men of widely differing views.

For, although last-minute changes are always possible, it seems likely that the report, or at least the heart of it, will actually be designed to be read; a most unusual quality in any Government report.

According to present plans, the main body of the report, which will include the detailed analyses of the various subcommittees, together with the statistics and the appendices which will interest only the specialists, will be preceded by a short, pithy and readable introduction.

Outspoken Report Likely.

This introduction will summarize the conclusions and recommendations of the committee, and the chances are that it will be a great deal more outspoken than is usual in such cases. For it is expected to spell out, so that he who runs may read, the real political interest of the United States in an economically healthy Europe.

The economic and humanitarian aspects of aid to Europe will not be disregarded but the overriding American interest in a politically independent western Europe will be frankly underscored, let the Kremlin and the Cominform howl though they may.

Although no final decision has been taken, the committee is also pretty unanimously agreed on the form American participation in the Marshall plan should take. The majority of the committee members agrees that the American end cannot be run by any existing department or government agency. The interdepartmental committee system, which has lead to such fatal results in the past, has also been discarded.

Instead, the committee is expected to recommend creation of a separate and distinct agency, somewhat on the lines of the War Production Board, headed by an executive appointed by the President, and with very wide authority.

The knottiest question that confronts the committee is what the relationship should be between this agency and the foreign governments participating in the Marshall plan. This is certain to be an explosive issue when the Congressional debate begins.

Stassen Idea Rejected.

Presidential candidate Harold Stassen had demanded in effect a "moratorium on Socialism" as a quid pro quo for American aid to Europe, and this idea has found support in influential conservative quarters. Thus it is interesting, the more so since the Harriman committee includes a number of politically conservative business men, that the committee has almost unanimously discarded the Stassen idea.

The committee members, after a two-month look at the facts, have come to the conclusion that to attach such political conditions to the Marshall plan would be to sink it without trace.

On the other hand, the committee is also agreed that the American agency administering the plan cannot confine its activities to "shoveling out the dollars and hoping for the best." Otherwise, it is argued, what was meant to be permanent rehabilitation might become no more than temporary relief.

Production is the key to the long-term economic—and thus political—health of Europe. Moreover, the Paris committee of 16 nations has made certain commitments, both to increase production and to work together for a more rational and productive European economy.

WHEAT PUSHES CLOSE TO $3; LIVESTOCK SHARPLY LOWER

CHICAGO, Nov. 1 (AP)—Livestock prices finished the week sharply lower at the Chicago stockyards Saturday, but wheat pushed closer to the $3 a bushel mark amid apprehension over the 1948 crop.

Compared with a week earlier, butcher hogs of all weights were $1.75 to $2 a hundred pounds lower, steers and heifers of average, choice or better grades closed down 25 to 50 cents, and lower grades dropped $1 to $2.50. Slaughter lambs were mostly 50 cents to $1 lower. Hogs have been on the decline for more than two weeks and retail pork prices were a little lower this week at the grocery stores.

The need for rain in the Southwest winter wheat crop area exerted a bullish influence on grains and near the end of the first hour of trading on the Chicago Board of Trade wheat moved up 2⅛ to 3½ cents. Wheat for December delivery rose to $2.97. Corn was 1⅜ to 2¼ cents higher, December $2.28⅛, and oats were ⅞ to 1⅛ higher, December $1.13¼.

RAIL UNIONS ASK FOR QUICK ACTION ON PAY INCREASE

Further Delay on 30 Pct. Proposal Could Disturb Operations, They Tell Lines.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1 (AP) — The railroads have been requested to give immediate consideration of a demand for a 30 per cent wage increase for the 350,000 members of five operating railroad brotherhoods.

Asserting that "further neglect and delay could disturb railroad operations," representatives of the brotherhoods asked that their current negotiations with the carriers for changes in 44 working rules be set aside temporarily in favor of the wage proposal.

A spokesman for the railroads' bargaining committees gave no direct reply to the unions' demands but he said the rule negotiations were taken up before the wage proposal because the brotherhoods arranged it that way.

The carriers' spokesman denied that there had been any "neglect or delay" by the railroads and said union officers had' "deliberately" chosen to put the rules proposals ahead of the pay demands.

The carriers have estimated that the wage demand if granted, and which the unions asked to become effective today, would increase labor costs $400,000,000 a year and the rule changes would add another billion dollars annually. The brotherhoods said the increase would provide a $3 daily minimum wage boost.

Last September an arbitration board awarded approximately 1,000,000 non-operating workers an increase of 15½ cents an hour and railroads estimated the boost hiked pay rolls $438,340,000 a year.

Spokesmen for the brotherhoods representing engineers, fireman, trainmen, conductors and switchmen, said "hundreds of thousands of workers in other industries" have had one or several increases since operating railroad employes received their last one in May, 1946, following a brief nation-wide railroad strike by engineers and trainmen.

The operating workers were granted a 2½-cent wage increase at that time, to be added to a 16-cents increase effective Jan. 1, 1946. Acceptance of this proposal by the engineers and trainmen ended two-day strikes in May, 1946. The other brotherhoods accepted earlier the wage plan, proposed personally by President Truman, and did not participate in the strike.

"Railroad workers are using up their savings, going into debt, and actually financing themselves," the unions said in a statement. "This condition simply cannot continue. Further neglect and delay could disturb railroad operations. This need not be if the railroads will only act in time."

W.L.CHENERY SAYS WORKERS GAINED, DIDN'T LOSE, BY TAFT-HARTLEY ACT

Publisher Asserts Fears Were Largely Political —H. M. Ramel Elected Head of Associated Industries.

The Taft-Hartley Act is "a thorough and a highly intelligent statute" enacted in response to public opinion, and essentials of the law are likely to be retained, "however many face-saving amendments may be made," William L. Chenery, publisher of Collier's, asserted here last night.

He was the principal speaker at the annual banquet of the Associated Industries of Missouri, held at Hotel Jefferson.

"I think that the fears and alarms over the Taft-Hartley Act are largely political and greatly exaggerated," the publisher of the weekly magazine declared. He said a study of the law and of its interpretations by AFL and CIO attorneys had convinced him organized labor by this statute had lost little "that as fair-minded American citizens they would want to retain."

"As employes" he continued, "they lost nothing and gained something. As labor politicians they may have lost privileges it is hard to defend on the ground of justice and fair play."

Second Phase of New Deal.

Chenery interpreted enactment of the measure as part of "the second phase of the New Deal labor revolution."

"First," he said, "we had an administration that drew its popular support in large part from organized labor. As a part of that era came the Wagner Act, a frankly prejudiced law, weighted against employers by intention, and interpreted one-sidedly by men who should have been judges, but who too often turned out to be advocates.

"Second, we had strikes and other exhibitions of great economic power inconsiderately exercised. Public opinion, including the public opinion of labor union membership, was alarmed and wanted protection by law."

Chenery said he found little difference between the attitude of John L. Lewis or James Caesar Petrillo to the public interest and the attitude imputed to the elder Cornelius Vanderbilt in the remark, "The public be damned."

He predicted that public opinion will not tolerate any general strike that paralyzes communications or seriously threatens national welfare, and that unions will not succeed in any campaign to make their financial accounts secret again.

H. M. Ramel to Head Group.

Herbert M. Ramel, vice president of Ramsey Accessories Corp., was elected president of Associated Industries yesterday. F. Gano Chance, president of the A. B. Chance Co. of Centralia, and Elmer F. Pierson, president of the Vendo Co., Kansas City, were named vice presidents. Theodore J. Krauss of St. Louis was re-elected executive vice president, and F. W. Stewart of St. Louis was named treasurer.

In a resolution adopted yesterday, the association said it would support "sound measures for cooperative state aid to local governments" and would "oppose as unsound state grants-in-aid or revenue sharing plans which do not require the local tax levying body to assume political accountability for the imposition of the tax."

Another resolution urged Congress to continue to reduce the number of Government bureaus, services and employes. Tax reduction also was recommended, and the association urged that "tax benefits now enjoyed by citizens of the 13 community property states be accorded to citizens of all states."

A resolution on labor relations said the national Taft-Hartley Act and the state Madison law deprive workers of no fair rights but do deprive "leaders of organized labor of special privileges to which they are not justly entitled and which these leaders have exercised to intimidate and enslave the working men generally."

VIOLATORS OF SCHOOL STOP SIGNS TO APPEAR IN COURT

William E. Buder, committee chairman, said immediate objectives of the group would be to disseminate information to the public, to integrate fire prevention into other activities of the Safety Council and to help bring the Fire Department to full strength and maintain it at highest efficiency.

Other members of the committee are: Fire Chief Frank Egenriether; Mrs. Fred Armstrong, chairman of the home safety division of the safety council; Frank Lawrence, secretary of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce; John J. O'Toole, regional chairman of the National Board of Fire Underwriters; W. H. Semsrott, manager of the Associated Retailers of St. Louis; Paul Terry, manager of the Missouri Inspection Bureau, and Fred Wehrenberg, president of the Motion Picture Theater Owners' Association.

CONVICTED OF MANSLAUGHTER IN CRASH FATAL TO WOMAN

Ivan R. Anderson of Scottsbluff, Nebr., was found guilty of manslaughter early today in the death of Miss Virginia Beuchler, former St. Louisan, in a two-and-a-half day trial at Scottsbluff, the Associated Press reported.

Miss Buechler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Beuchler, 5230 Gresham avenue, died last May 21 as the result of injuries suffered three days before in a head-on automobile collision on a highway outside Scottsbluff. Carl Schwartzkopf, driver of the machine in which Miss Buechler was riding, and Anderson, driver of the other automobile, were both injured slightly. Miss Buechler, 24 years old, had lived in Scottsbluff for the last four years.

District Judge C. G. Perry said the jury had deliberated since yesterday afternoon, and that sentence would be pronounced later. Miss Buechler was employed as radio communications officer at the Scottsbluff airport under the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

POLICE WARNING SHOT HALTS MAN WHO TOOK ANOTHER'S $4

A warrant charging James Tyce, Negro chauffeur, with robbery, was issued today after his arrest by two special officers early today when they saw him struggling with Wyman E. Granaman, 5822 Staley avenue, Affton, in the yard of Dumas School, 1241 South Third street. He was charged with taking Granaman's purse, containing $4.

The special officers, Virgil Kleine and Walter Dorn, reported that Tyce ran when he heard them approaching. They said a warning shot was fired when he was about 150 feet away and Tyce stopped with his hands raised. The officers found the purse in Tyce's hand. He gave an address in the 2700 block of Cass avenue.

FIGHTS AND BOOING AT RALLY AGAINST HOLLYWOOD PROBE

P.C.A. Gets Court Order Permitting Affair Near Independence Hall.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1 (UP) —A demonstration, marked by booing and several fist fights, broke out today in the shadow of Independence Hall when the Progressive Citizens of America opened a United States District Court-approved rally at the historic shrine.

About 1000 persons, including many war veterans, were on hand when the P.C.A. started its meeting in protest against the congressional "Communism-in-Hollywood" investigation. Among the scheduled speakers were some movie writers cited for contempt.

The meeting place was in Independence Square, directly behind the shrine, and the speakers' platform was behind the Liberty Bell.

The order clearing the way for the rally, at which 19 Hollywood personalities were to speak, was read by Judge John Biggs Jr. He and Judge Gerald McLaughlin gave the majority opinion, while Judge Harry E. Kalodner dissented.

Judge Bard granted with reluctance yesterday an injunction over-riding the city's refusal to allow the P.C.A. use of the site. Bard said that although he "loathed and despised" Communism, he felt it would be a "mistake" to prevent the meeting.

THEATER EX-LESSEE SUES MOVIE FIRMS FOR $300,000

Suit for $300,000 was filed today in United States District Court by Victor G. Mossotti, former lessee of the Shubert Theater, against motion picture distribution firms and theater operators, alleging they formed a conspiracy in restraint of trade which prevented him from obtaining first-run pictures.

Mossotti said he was forced to cancel a five-year lease 30 days after signing it in October 1942, sustaining actual damages estimated by him to be $100,000. His suit is for treble damages.

Defendants include Fanchon & Marco Enterprises, St. Louis Amusement Co., Paramount Film Distributing Corp., R-K-O Radio Pictures, Inc., Twentieth Century Fox Film Corp., Warner Bros. Distributing Corp., Universal Film Exchanges, Inc., United Artists Corp., Loew's, Inc., and Columbia Pictures, Inc.

BELLEVILLE MAN KILLED WHEN AUTO OVERTURNS

Lewis E. Rehg of Belleville was killed early today when the automobile in which he was riding overturned on Illinois State Aid Road No. 9, three miles southwest of the city.

Rehg, a Navy veteran was returning from a Halloween party at Cahokia with Roland Wilson, the driver, and two women companions when the machine, out of control, plunged into a ditch. Rehg was thrown out and the automobile rolled over him.

Wilson, who gave his address as Route 1, Centreville Station, and one of the young women, Miss Louise Lance, Route 3 Belleville, were treated at St. Elizabeth's Hospital for minor injuries and released.

CUSTODIAN GETS IMPOUNDED VOTES IN UE ELECTION

Judge Denies Opponents' Plea to Keep Sentner From Beginning New Term.

Ballots and records of the recent election of officers of District 8 of the CIO United Electrical, Radio & Machine Workers' Union, which had been impounded by order of Circuit Judge Francis E. Williams, were turned over yesterday to the court-appointed custodian of the ballots, Oscar A. Ehrhardt, executive secretary of the CIO Industrial Union Council.

They are to be kept in a bank safe deposit box until an official count of the votes is made by the three-man election committee of the union, under Ehrhardt's supervision. Ehrhardt is to report the findings of the official count to the court by Nov. 10, three days before resumption of the hearing on a suit brought by right-wing candidates, who claim they were elected, to enjoin William Sentner, a Communist and president of the district, and other officers from assuming office.

An oral motion of Dan P. Reardon, attorney for the right-wing candidates, for appointment of a temporary receiver to assume Sentner's duties pending decision of the injunction suit, was withdrawn yesterday after Morris J. Levin, Sentner's attorney, pointed out that the district's executive board could operate the union temporarily.

Judge Williams overruled a motion by Reardon that a temporary restraining order be issued preventing Sentner and Robert B. Logsdon from beginning new terms of office as president and vice president, respectively. The motion was overruled after Levin pointed out the men already are serving an elective term and, under the union's bylaws, would retain office until their successors were duly elected and qualified.

MAN SHOT IN TAVERN FIGHT LOSES BOTH OF HIS ARMS

Sonnie Lee Ford, Negro laborer of 303 Roosevelt road, Venice, had both arms amputated at the elbow today as a result of gunshot wounds suffered last night in a fight with another Negro at a tavern at 401 Weaver street, Venice.

Police said Ford's assailant, Johnny Mathews, 405 Weaver, told them he and Ford became involved in a dispute at the bar, and Ford drew a knife. Recalling that Ford had been involved in a murder case several years ago, Mathews said he went home and got a single-barreled shotgun.

He fired one shot at Ford striking him in the arm as he came out of the tavern, Mathews told police. When Ford went back into the bar, Mathews said he followed, reloading the gun, and fired a second shot, striking Ford in the other arm. Ford was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Granite City where his condition was said to be serious. Mathews was held for investigatiuon.

CAB DRIVER LOSES LICENSE FOR A YEAR FOR SPEEDING

Leonard J. Gregory, a taxicab driver, was fined $25 and costs on a charge of speeding by Police Judge George J. Grellner today and his driver's license was suspended for one year.

Police testified Gregory was arrested Oct. 8 after he had driven 40 miles an hour on West Florissant avenue between Union boulevard and Thrush avenue.

Gregory told the court he had seen the moving picture depicting the tragedies caused by reckless driving, which police court judges have shown to traffic offenders, and had resolved never to speed again. He broke his resolution, he said, because he was taking three nurses to a hospital.

NATIVE ALASKANS IN STORE SHOW OF ESKIMO VILLAGE

Eskimo Village—a Christmas show for children complete with Alaskan Eskimos in native wild-animal costumes, Siberian huskies pulling 14-foot sleds, penguins from the Antarctic that stand on ice cakes by preference, and a traditional Santa Claus—opened today at Famous-Barr department store.

The village, to be on display through Christmas, will be open daily except Sundays from 9:30 a.m. until 4:45 p.m. in the ninth-floor exhibition auditorium, entrance to which is through the eighth-floor toy shop. Admission to children is free, but they pay 38 cents for a "surprise gift package." Admission for adults is 18 cents.

While the children were kept amused by Arctic devices, the grownups listened to lectures on Eskimo life by Dave Irwin, explorer, who produced the show, and got acquainted with the Anungazuk family, Eskimos from Wales, most northern point in Alaska, who are the village's mainstays.

The family consists of Toby, an Alaskan Territorial Guard with the rank of corporal during the war; his wife, Martha; their children, Okoyohok, a 2-year-old boy, and Tokgotuk, an 11-month-old girl carried by her mother in an ahmauk (sack) on her back, and Toby's brother, Sereadlok.

4 CITY GANGSTERS REPORTED HIRED TO KILL SHELTON

Shelton's blooded Angus cattle were stolen.

It was following this instance that Harris reportedly came to St. Louis to talk with some of his old prison friends from Leavenworth. He discovered that some of them thought Shelton had given them "the runaround" and would like to see him out of the way. His gambling activities in Illinois cut into their profits and those of their gambler friends.

Russell Slattery, brother-in-law of Miss Bell, told police in St. Louis that he drove Harris around to a number of juke box distributing establishments when Harris was here in August. Police believe Harris lined up the gamblers who established the $20,000 fund at that time.

The hoodlums always have feared the Shelton gang, remembering how the Sheltons beat the Birger gang and the Klu Klux Klan in southern Illinois in the early '20s. The hoodlums, representing the Capone gamblers, were said to have carried out orders of their bosses in murdering Carl.

"Brains" of Gang.

Carl Shelton, known as the "brains" of the gang, had dropped all his interest in pinball and slot machines in recent years and had concentrated on gambling only. The Post-Dispatch was told that he had interests in almost every dice game in Illinois east of St. Clair and Madison counties.

His operations kept lucrative profits from Saturday night games for oil well workers out of the hands of the Capone group.

Many of the hoodlums and gamblers, linked in the murder of Shelton, held a grudge of about 10 years' standing against him. Some of them thought that he should have staked them when they were released from prison. One of these men, a former Shelton gangster, is Frank "Buster" Wortman.

Wortman is one of the former gangsters known by police to be connected with the Plaza Amusement Co., Inc., a juke box concern, formerly located on 3020 North Grand boulevard, in the vicinity of the area visited by Harris in August. The firm now has moved to 1812 Washington avenue.

Chief of Police Jeremiah O'Connell said he had received no request from Mills for the arrest of any St. Louis suspects.

GIRL'S LEGS BROKEN BY AUTO

Miss Magnolia Brown, Negro, suffered fractures of both legs yesterday when she was struck by an automobile at Garrison avenue and Washington boulevard. She was taken to Homer G. Phillips Hospital. Police said the driver, Lenzie Underwood, 1005 Van Nostrand avenue, Jefferson Barracks, told them Miss Brown hesitated as she was crossing the street and he believed she was giving him right of way. When she stepped forward, he said, he was unable to stop in time to avoid the accident.

Underwood was booked suspected of careless driving and felonious wounding.

URGES WORLD GOVERNMENT AS WAY TO PEACE

Cord Meyer Jr. Tells Federalists U.S.-Russian Conflict Proves U.N. Is Inadequate.

World government is not an ideological concept of the future but the only practicable solution to the present-day problem of world peace and the dangers of power politics, Cord Meyer Jr., president of United World Federalists, Inc., said here last night.

Meyer, who was assistant to former Minnesota Gov. Harold Stassen at the San Francisco Conference in 1945 when the United Nations Charter was drafted, is in St. Louis to attend the first annual convention of the World Federalists, today and tomorrow at Hotel Jefferson. Among the 300 delegates from the 37 state chapters of the organization who are scheduled to participate in the conference are Cass Canfield, president of Harper & Bros., New York publishing firm; W. T. Holiday, president of Standard Oil Co. of Ohio; Carl Van Doren, author, and Edgar Ansel Mowrer, newspaper columnist and author.

"The present struggle between the United States and Russia for political and economic power, and for control of the world is ample proof of the inadequacy of the United Nations," Meyer said. "Each nation is using the threat of war as a diplomatic tool, and the race to make each nation a military garrison is creating mutual fear and distrust and giving inhabitants a feeling of insecurity."

Says It Would Reduce Army.

A system of world government would enforce a reduction in armaments, prohibit large military forces, and through a world police organization apprehend and punish individuals in any nation who were found guilty of fomenting war or building up a war machine, he said. Such an organization could be established through the U.N. by amendment procedures already provided by the constitution of that group, he said.

Under such a plan, each nation would retain its national sovereignty in ideological, economic, social and political affairs, and competition among nations would continue if national policies did not lead to a threat of war, he said.

The immediate program of the World Federalists consists of obtaining support of public opinion in the United States and the adoption of the proposal as part of the nation's foreign policy. Then, with the backing of the State Department, the proposal would be presented to the U.N. for consideration and adoption, Meyer asserted.

"The smaller nations and England, France, Italy and China favor world government," he said, "but they can't express themselves strongly because they are tied economically with either Russia or the United States, neither of whom have indorsed the plan. We are going to attempt to make world government an issue in the 1948 elections and try to elect only those Congressmen who favor it."

Attitude on Russia.

If Russia refuses to participate in the plan, Meyer said, those nations which agree to become members should establish the framework of government without the Soviet Union.

Abolition of the big power veto, under the U.N. charter, is not a solution to the prevention of war because the nation deprived of the veto might not yield to the majority view and the rest of the members might have to make war on the aggressor. The United States plan for the abolition of existing atomic bombs and for the control of atomic energy is not a remedy because it bars only that type of weapon and does not prohibit nations from building strong armies and navies or making use of bacteriological warfare.

As a captain in the Marine Corps, Meyer lost his left eye when he was struck in the face by a grenade while leading a machine-gun platoon on Guam. He is the author of numerous magazine articles on the prospects for peace.

RAIN KEEPS DOWN HALLOWEEN PRANKS

(Pictures in Everyday Magazine.)

It was a wet night for witches last night, and most of the children who usually roam the streets playing pranks and ringing doorbells in the Halloween tradition did their celebrating indoors.

Still there were enough of them abroad to keep the police busy. Twice the usual number of radio calls, most of them from persons complaining about prowlers, were turned in during the evening. In several neighborhoods manhole covers had to be replaced, and two officers of the Newstead Avenue District, called seven times in little more than an hour to turn off fire hydrants, finally borrowed a wrench from the Fire Department and carried it with them in their squad car as standard equipment for the night.

Most of the pranks were innocent enough, but the small children found it not much fun to wear their masks when they also had to put on their raincoats, and the doorbell ringing stopped at an early hour.

There were several instances of vandalism, however. The St. Louis Public Service Co. reported 10 windows on a City Limits streetcar and seven on a Creve Coeur streetcar shattered, and boys were reported dropping large rocks on automobiles passing under the Wabash Railroad viaduct over Florissant road.

At Barnhardt, in Jefferson county, Walter Ruch suffered minor head wounds when he was shot by Bert Walter as he and seven companions were attempting to overturn an outhouse on Walter's farm. State highway patrolmen said Walter told them he thought he was firing over the boys' heads. Ruch was treated at Alexian Brothers Hospital and released.

George Whitelaw, manager of a liquor store at 5000 Page boulevard, got an unpleasant surprise when a Negro customer, wearing a false face, ordered wine, gin and whisky then produced a revolver and removed $200 from the till. The masked man, accompanied by two other armed Negroes, fled with the liquor and the money.

Nine free Halloween shows for boys and girls were held at community centers in the city under the sponsorship of the police juvenile division and the International Brotherhood of Magicians. In Kirkwood, the Kiwanis Club held its annual window painting contest despite the rain, but in Ferguson, a street dance, scheduled by the Chamber of Commerce as a part of its Halloween carnival, was moved indoors and a parade postponed until tonight.

PAIR TIED, ROBBED BY 2 MEN IN HOTEL ROOM ON EAST SIDE

Guest Says He Answered Knock, and Holdup Men Took $1020 and $1939 in Jewelry.

Mr. and Mrs. Mittchel Kalin, carnival operators who live at Baltimore, Md., were robbed of $1020 and jewelry valued at $1939 in their room at the Broadview Hotel, East St. Louis, yesterday, police disclosed today.

Kalin told police someone knocked on his door at 3 a.m. yesterday morning, but he refused to open it. He received a telephone call from a man asking for a "Mr. Moore" an hour later, he said, and at 8:30 a.m. there was another knock on the door by a man who said he had a package to deliver.

Kalin told police he opened the door and a man thrust a pistol against his chest and forced him and his wife, Frances, to lie down on the bed. Kalin's feet and hands were tied with a belt and necktie. The robber tied Mrs. Kalin with towels. He placed pillow cases over their heads then opened the door and admitted a second man.

The robbers searched the room methodically, Kalin said. They took $1017, a $500 diamond ring, a smaller $25 ring and a watch valued at $70 from him, then took $3, two rings worth a total of $785 and two watches valued at a total of $559 from his wife.

Before leaving, Kalin told police, the men warned him not to try to get free for at least five minutes. Actually, he reported, it was 15 minutes before he succeeded in loosening his bonds.

At first, he said, he was too frightened to think of calling police. He drove to the home of a friend in East St. Louis and, on the friend's advice, reported the robbery to Night Chief Charles Carney. Carney, he said, told him to make a report at the East St. Louis police station.

$600 BAKERY THEFT REPORTED

Theft of $600 was reported to police yesterday by Mrs. Harvey Rudy, operator of the Lickhalter Bakery, 1309 Franklin avenue.

Officers said Mrs. Rudy told them she heard a noise at the rear of the shop and found the back door open. The money she said had been taken from a cash box kept in a room above the bakery.

Charles J. McVey, a fireman with Engine Company 22, yesterday was appointed a captain. He will be assigned to Engine Company 6 at 12 North Ninth street, replacing Capt. Otto Brexler, who is retiring. McVey lives at 1458 Tamm avenue.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Maintenance Counts, Too

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Many years ago I talked with a kindly man who in his lifetime expended large sums of money on a hospital. It is a beautiful building, immaculate in the care bestowed upon it. He said to me that it was fine that so many people gave liberally to the construction of such institutions, yet forgot to provide for the necessary expenditure for maintenance and upkeep.

As I understand it, he provided for this one so thoroughly that it matters not whether its income equals the outgo. The expense of its maintenance is amply provided for.

I have observed from time to time that Neighborhood Gardens, the J. A. Wolf project at Eighth and Biddle, is kept up, and the situation looks inviting in respect to its inhabitability—things look clean. I passed the Clinton-Peabody project this morning and it was as forlorn, uncouth, dreary a place as one could wish to see. I wondered if the children that were playing about would in future years be inclined to point with pride to their childhood home.

They were nice-looking tots, flowers in a desert waste. At their school, just to the south, the walks were all littered up, dust flying, generally speaking a mess. How can we expect to impress on children the value of order and neatness, when confronted by such evidence of lack of care on the part of their superiors?

Let's clean our own backyards—and front too—before we try to tell other countries what to do.

W. E. LANSDOWNE.

For Outlawing the Communists

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Whatever our approach to the Russian problem, it would seem that we should not recognize as a political party any group which admits to the aim of destroying us from within.

Unless and until we take the step of canceling such recognition, it is difficult to see a legitimate basis for investigation into membership in the Communist party.

ELMA NIPHER DAWSON.

Bread by the Slice

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In the matter of eating less bread to save wheat, many people would welcome the chance to buy less than a whole loaf of bread which they cannot use up. This method involves no expensive new machinery for making smaller loaves.

Most retail bakeries are equipped with slicing machines. At a cost of 14 cents, this writer buys a whole loaf of sliced bread consisting of 15 slices. About half of this is usually wasted. If I could buy four slices at a time, at a cost of 1 cent a slice, I would be spending only 4 cents for the bread I need and wasting no bread. This would net the retail bakery 15 cents by the slice instead of 14 cents for the sale of a whole loaf.

To this writer's knowledge, bread has never been sold in this country by the slice although I saw it being done in England before the war. Nevertheless, it is easy to see how it could accomplish a tremendous saving.

Another method is that of combining potatoes with wheat flour to make bread. Commercial bakeries do make and sell potato bread in some sections of the country but we don't hear much about it. This method of making bread would not only accomplish a substantial saving in wheat but it would also make some sensible use of a lot of potatoes now being destroyed.

Why is it that government will always by-pass painless schemes to conserve wheat and prefers, instead, to tamper with and dislocate whole industries such as poultry raising, and throw thousands of people out of work by closing down whisky distilleries?

MABEL G. BLISS.
Cleveland, O.

Coal That Won't Burn

Is there a law against misrepresenting coal? I have $46.50 worth of stoker coal in my basement which I cannot burn. It smokes and fills the house. I thought I bought the best, I asked for No. 10 stoker coal, but was told to try this grade, "blue flame."

I have found it full of dust, no oil, No. 10, No. 4, some pieces two to three inches long. I phoned to the company from which I bought it, and they denied making the sale. The man said my stoker needed attention, so I paid $55 to have stoker overhauled. Still this coal will not burn. Can't something be done?

Hate Costs Too Much

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I was surprised to see so many letters reflecting a hateful attitude toward Europe and its people. True, we can never forget that Europe has twice been turned into a battlefield for which we have suffered a loss of life and hard times. But we must not give way to hate. Hate never cured any ill or stopped any war. It only breeds prejudice and disorder, which are the roots of every war.

EDWIN CHARLES SEIM.

Will Mrs. S. Smithson, whose letter appeared Oct. 29, please communicate with the editor of this column?

A Bridge for the Future

Are the interests of the metropolitan area as a whole—Illinois side as well as Missouri side—sufficiently protected by the terms of approval for East St. Louis' application for permission to construct a new highway bridge over the Mississippi?

This question arises with the announcement of the Missouri Public Service Commission that it has approved the application subject to East St. Louis' conformity with the ordinance passed by the St. Louis Board of Aldermen. This ordinance concerns the western approach, at Third street between Delmar boulevard and Franklin avenue. A further condition is that East St. Louis file with affected railroads and utilities detailed plans and specifications indorsed by the St. Louis Board of Public Service.

The value of another bridge does not need to be argued. Jams are common on the MacArthur and Eads bridges. The city's bridge is now undergoing extensive highway deck repairs which greatly slows down traffic. Were either bridge to be closed for any reason, transportation to and from Illinois and the East would be forced through an almost impassable bottleneck.

The East St. Louis bridge should be built for the future. It should be wide enough for years to come. It should look ahead to the possibility of an airport in the Horseshoe Lake area, which it might serve with a direct, fast highway. It should reflect the best highway designing and its approaches should follow the best designs. President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service needs to do more than look out for careful coordination of the St. Louis approach into plans for Third street and the riverfront tracks. Since the new structure will stand near one of the most gracefully arched bridges in the world, it should conform to best tastes in appearance.

A question which should be faced and answered is whether the Delmar location is the best one. The major street plan for St. Louis, in existence since 1942, provides for a bridge at Cass avenue, which is approximately five blocks north. This is now part of the Master City Plan, announced last January, and approved by the Board of Aldermen. A Cass avenue location would be infinitely better from the standpoint of traffic, both present and future. It would also harmonize with the St. Clair county plan for a new interstate highway.

St. Louis should co-operate as fully as possible with the City of East St. Louis, but it has every reason to check all these points.

St. Louisans have ample cause to feel they have been overtaxed on the east approach to MacArthur Bridge. It is only fair to say, however, that these taxes are levied not by the City of East St. Louis, but by the taxing authority of St. Clair County, in application of state tax laws. The Butler Act, which caused the recent increase in the tax on the MacArthur Bridge, was a statewide measure which caused an outcry among Illinois taxpayers from Chicago to Cairo. When East St. Louis completes its bridge, it will have a stake in fair taxation which will make it more watchful of St. Clair County assessments. And St. Louis will have a forceful way to register its complaints when taxes are excessive.

Meantime, the community is entitled to a thorough look at plans and specifications and the financing and toll arrangements whereby the bridge will operate and pay for itself.

How to Lose Needed Men

Did Congress intend to force Herbert S. Marks out of his important Government post of general counsel for the Atomic Energy Commission? If so it has achieved the end it might have been seeking when it voted to cut Mr. Marks' pay $4000 a year. In a time of rising living costs few persons are going to take a cut of approximately one-third their Government salary, particularly when they could have been making more money in the first place.

Doubtless Senator McKellar is pleased with the news Mr. Marks is going back to private practice since the Tennessee spoilsman fought the retiring general counsel along with Chairman Lilienthal when the Atomic Energy nominations were before the Senate. But as usual what pleases McKellar is bad for the country. A short-sighted pay cut costs the Government a public servant whose many assignments included much work on the now historic Acheson-Lilienthal report on atomic energy.

One thing that should be clear to Congress when it meets again is that Washington is being rapidly drained of personnel which should be kept on the job. The inevitable result of the Marks pay cut should be noted down on a lot of congressional memo pads.

Freedom Before Statehood

Here is a little problem in grade school arithmetic: The distance from Seattle to Honolulu is the same as from Seattle to Nome, Alaska. If it costs $13 to deliver a ton of cargo from Seattle to Honolulu, how much should it cost to deliver a ton from Seattle to Nome?

The obvious answer is also $13, but the obvious answer isn't the answer on the freight rate schedule. The answer there is $28. The reason? Gov. Ernest Gruening of Alaska explains it in very few words:

> Alaska is handicapped by excessive maritime transportation rates—the highest in the world, in fact, imposed by what has become virtually a one-man owned absentee shipping monopoly, a monopoly fostered and permitted by unseen men in distant federal agencies.

For the first time, the public eye is being focused on this situation through the hearings being conducted in Seattle before a panel of examiners from the United States Maritime Commission. For the first time, the Alaska Steamship Co. and its majority stockholder, Gilbert W. Skinner of Seattle, are in the spotlight and their operations and inside connections with the Government are being subjected to public scrutiny.

Skinner's shipping enterprises enjoy a Government subsidy, which the Attorney General of Alaska, Ralph J. Rivers, says is worth $4,000,000 a year. When another shipper, Philip G. Briggs, complained and asked for a share in the subsidy as a matter of equity, he was refused. This led George Sundberg, manager of the Alaska Development Board, to denounce the Skinner subsidy as support for an "established monopoly" in discrimination against an "efficient newcomer." Sundberg found precious little "free enterprise" in such a condition.

If Alaska is preparing for statehood, if it is to be a major outpost in the national defense, it can no longer be the fief of a chosen few business men. There is no better time to crack these monopolies than right now.

Red Trap in Korea

Not deceived by the gestures of righteousness which the Russians have been making in the direction of Korea, the UN Political Committee has recommended the adoption of the American proposal for a roving commission to consult with Koreans on ways of assuring their early independence. The United States hopes that this body will be authorized to conduct elections and to observe the eventual withdrawal of occupation forces.

The Russians had been urging that Korean representatives be brought to New York for a hearing, but John Foster Dulles denounced this as a time-squandering device in a situation which is swirling toward a crisis. It is out of the same cloth as the Soviet proposal that all troops—Russian and American—be withdrawn from Korea by Jan. 1.

On the face of it, what could be more fair? Korea never was an enemy country. On the contrary, it was freed from the Japanese, and guaranteed a return of self-government. So why should it be occupied by foreign troops?

But it is plain by now that the Russians have no real intention of pulling out of Korea. They have gone so far as to raise a native conscript army in their northern zone. This force certainly would uphold the Communist party which it has assiduously fostered. Furthermore, party members have filtered into the American zone, and once Gen. Hodge and his troops pulled out, would not the Reds quickly make themselves masters of the whole country?

Actually, the Soviet proposal is nothing more than a maneuver to counteract the American suggestion that elections be held in Korea under UN supervision before next March 31. The elected government then would enter into negotiations with the Soviet Union and the United States for the withdrawal of occupation forces under satisfactory UN safeguards.

The Russians, however, do not like free elections. And with the UN on the job, they would not be able to reverse the result by coup as in Hungary. Hence the phony troop withdrawal suggestion so that the Koreans might be "free to work out their own government."

No doubt, the Red propaganda mills will make much of our rejection of this scheme. They will call it another example of American "imperialism." The Russian gimmick, however, is much too awkward. That was demonstrated by the UN vote.

On Cats and Snobbery

Unlike dogs, cats have rather few champions. But they have a lavish admirer and stout defender, we discover, in James Mason—welcomed as a first-rate British stage and screen star, but who turns out also to be an able writer and illustrator. He devoted both of those talents in a recent issue of the New York Times Sunday Magazine to a piece about the five pets he brought with him to the United States—and to cats in general.

He is persuasive when he holds forth on their sense of responsibility and their limitless courage. He excuses occasional wantonness by citing their devotion to kittens. Their bird-killing propensities he dismisses with a quick reference to men who set packs of hounds after foxes—and who shoot birds. And to those who insist that horses, elephants and monkeys have higher intellectual status, he points out that elephants and horses are made to labor and that monkeys end up as organ grinders' assistants.

It is all very moving, especially since Mr. Mason's sketches suggest a lissome grace that leads the mind to thoughts of Powers models in Adrian creations. Yet there's a rub. It comes when he gets around to human relations. Dogs, with all their friendliness and loyalty, he says, are the favorites of extroverts; cats, in their arrogance and independence, are preferred by folk who find them "an excellent repository for the untapped subservience in which they abound." That's amazing humility in a man of the stage, but it will not hold up.

True, cats are snobs, but that is not why human beings like them. Snobbery is one-way. It can be dished out, but it can't be taken.

To the Quakers, the Palm

Probably no happier choice has ever been made than in awarding this year's Nobel Peace Prize to the Society of Friends, the Quakers. Relatively few in number, they truly are a leaven of mankind. Themselves steadfastly opposed to war, they have done more for the cause of peace by their example than has been accomplished by all the wordy winds of statesmen blowing almost ceaselessly around the globe.

Who would say that this international conference or that premier, or yonder foreign minister really has succeeded in an effort to push the menace of war a little deeper into the remote shades of the future? Yet the Quakers have held no plenary sessions, sent out no ambassadors, drawn up no pacts, treaties or agreements all be-ribboned and sealed with wax.

These people have, however, demonstrated a deep respect for the life of man—something which the war-makers count as nought. In the second World War as in the first, they hurried to the relief of the suffering and the hungry, carrying on their work long after the guns were silenced.

In the year about to end, for example, the American Service Committee of Philadelphia—which shares the prize with the Friends' Service Council of London—devoted $7,238,840 of its $8,365,326 budget to overseas activities. This is typical of the Friends' devotion to humanity which, were it widespread enough, would insure enduring peace by making war inconceivable.

The Quakers deserve the palm.

Unless it should turn into a double-feature program, the movie investigation is over, but it certainly lacked the regular sweetness-and-light Hollywood ending.

Free Speech for Hollywood

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Moving picture industry has some Communists but these do not begin to control film making, executive says; real issue is freedom of expression, which is indispensable, he points out; denounces smear technique and urges that we "make our democracy work."

From the Statement of Eric Johnston, President of the Motion Picture Association, to the House Committee on Un-American Activities

I'm not here to try to whitewash Hollywood. And I'm not here to help swing a tar-brush at it either. I want to stick to the facts as I see them. There are several points I'd like to make to this committee. The first one is this:

A damaging impression of Hollywood has spread all over the country as a result of last week's hearings. You have had a lot of sensational testimony about Hollywood. From some of it, the public would get the idea that Hollywood is running over with Communists and Communism. What are the facts?

Eric Johnston

I have said before that undoubtedly there are Communists in Hollywood, but in my opinion the percentage is extremely small.

I have had a number of close looks at Hollywood in the last two years, and I have looked at it through the eyes of an average business man. I recognize there is bound to be a lot of show business in Hollywood. But underneath there's the solid foundation of patriotic, hard-working, decent citizens.

No White House Pressure

There is another damaging impression which should be corrected. The report of the subcommittee said "that some of the most flagrant Communist propaganda films were produced as the result of White House pressure." This charge has been completely refuted by the testimony before you.

My second point includes another request to the committee. The report of your subcommittee stated that you had a list of all pictures produced in Hollywood in the last eight years which contained Communist propaganda. Your committee has not made this list public.

Again, I remind the committee that we have offered to put on a special showing of any or all of the pictures which stand accused so that you can see for yourselves what's in them.

Now I come to my third point—a vitally important one to every American and to the system under which we live. It is free speech. I've been advised by some persons to lay off it. I've been told that if I mentioned it I'd be playing into the hands of Communists. Nobody has a monopoly on the issue of free speech in this country. I'm not afraid of being right even if that puts me in with the wrong company.

Gagging by Intimidation

When I talk about freedom of speech in connection with this hearing, I mean just this: You don't need to pass a law to choke off free speech or seriously curtail it. Intimidation or coercion will do it just as well. You can't make good and honest motion pictures in an atmosphere of fear.

One of the most amazing paradoxes has grown out of this hearing. At one point we were accused of making Communist propaganda by not making pictures which show the advantages of our system. In other words, we were accused of putting propaganda on the screen by keeping it out.

That sort of reasoning is a little staggering, especially when you know the story of American pictures in some foreign countries. We are accused of Communist propaganda at home, but in Communist-dominated countries in Europe our motion picture films are banned because they contain propaganda for capitalism.

Calling Taft a Communist

To sum up this point: We insist on our right to decide what will or will not go in our pictures. We are deeply conscious of the responsibility this freedom involves and we have no intention to violate this trust by permitting subversive propaganda in our films.

It seems to me it is getting dangerously easy to call a man a Communist without proof or even reasonable suspicion. When a distinguished leader of the Republican party in the United States Senate is accused of following the Communist party line for introducing a housing bill, it is time, gentlemen, to give a little serious thought to the dangers of thoughtless smearing by gossip and hearsay.

Senator Taft isn't going to worry about being called a Communist. But not every American is a Senator Taft who can properly ignore such an accusation. Most of us in America are just little people, and loose charges can hurt little people. They can take away everything a man has—his livelihood, his reputation and his dignity.

Slums as Breeding Grounds

What are we going to do positively and constructively about combatting Communism? Communism must have breeding grounds. Men and women who have a reasonable measure of opportunity aren't taken in by the prattle of Communists. Revolutions plotted by frustrated intellectuals at cocktail parties won't get anywhere if we wipe out the potential causes of Communism. The most effective way is to make democracy work.

The real breeding ground of Communism is in the slums. It's everywhere where people haven't enough to eat or enough to wear through no fault of their own. Communism hunts misery, feeds on misery, and profits by it.

Freedoms walk hand in hand with abundance. That's been the American story.

We have been the greatest exporter of freedom, and the world is hungry for it. Today, it needs our wheat and our fuel to stave off hunger and fight off cold, but hungry and cold as they may be, men always hunger for freedom. We want to continue to practice and to export freedom.

If we fortify our democracy to lick want, we'll lick Communism—here and abroad.

TOO LONG AT THAT!

The scientist who said a day on earth was only four hours long thousands of years ago makes it sound like the unions have been losing ground.

A War We Forgot

Bernard DeVoto in the New York Herald Tribune Weekly Book Review.

Mr. Bill has set a sound, compact military history of the Mexican War in just such an embroidery of social detail as that which made his "The Beleaguered City" enjoyable. The decorations make for restful reading, and the military history has long been needed.

For our unpremeditated, make-it-up-as-you-go war with Mexico has almost disappeared from common knowledge, both because we have always felt guilty about it and because it was overshadowed by the far deadlier war for which it was, as Mr. Bill's title says, a rehearsal.

Mr. Bill is well grounded in military theory and military history at large. The wider knowledge gives his criticism authority and it is uncommonly pleasant to read a man who can point up what he says about Scott or Buena Vista with an informed reference to Washington or the Crimea.

But he writes eyewitness history. The official reports are present in the background, but the narrative is straight from the letters and diaries of participants and from the plentiful newspaper correspondence.

How the water stank at Matamoras, what heat and disease did at Camargo, what a forager's corpse with its throat cut looked like in the chaparral, the effect of dysentery on a blanket roll, how the behavior of the Texans appalled the Marylanders and why the Texans behaved as they did—he has such things direct from the only sources that count.

This is first-rate history. On his way Mr. Bill performs some narrative prodigies, for his accounts of battles are clear, complete, unhurried and yet remarkably compressed—and he always has time for an ironical grace note from a newspaper or Mr. Polk or Philip Hone, or for a thumbnail sketch of a political general.

Mr. Bill's larger frame of reference is less dependable than his military history. Thus, no matter what any American statesman thought or any British editor said, there was never any possibility at all that any British ministry of the '30s or '40s would seize California.

He is equally limited in his conception of the social matrix in which the war was set. What he says about James K. Polk bolsters a now powerful tendency to restore Polk to his proper place in our history. But he fails to understand that Polk's merits were accompanied by an appalling blindness, a blindness that, since it was in great part shared by his countrymen, became a national tragedy—our greatest one. Polk honestly thought the question of slavery had been settled by the Constitution.

The state of mind which Polk shared is a tremendous irony—and a tragedy unparalleled in our history. A historian should say so.

What Are Your Colors?

LESSONS IN LOVELINESS, by Judith Unger Scott. (Macrae-Smith Co., Philadelphia.)

Citing Keats' "a thing of beauty is a joy forever," the former sub-deb department editor of the Ladies' Home Journal gaily tells the girls what to do when for charm and all that. Her check list is as extensive as that for a crew about to land a four-motored plane.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Dilemmas at Halfway House

LONDON.

ENGLAND'S Labor Government continues to enforce wartime controls over a large sector of British life. Since the amount of food, shelter and clothing is limited, the Government feels compelled to ration it in such a way that each person receives his or her fair share.

This calls for an extensive organization and a great deal of bookkeeping. The housewife must deal with a complicated system of ration points and free points. Behind shuttered windows, lights burn late in neighborhood shops as the shopkeeper struggles to balance his ration accounts.

Stafford Cripps

In some respects this system seems to have worked very well. Families in the lower-income brackets feel they are getting just as good a deal as the rich. In fact, you can hear many people say that they are better off than they were before the war, with children getting free orange juice and free cod-liver oil.

"Fool's Purgatory."

But now that the Government has come smack up against the unbalance of exports and imports and against the awesome deficit of dollars, the end has come to what the Tory press calls "a fool's purgatory." The Government is trying to take the essential steps to meet the facts of life with the necessary realism.

The real question for the Labor Cabinet is whether it is possible to plan for a society that is half controlled and half uncontrolled. The proportion might be more nearly three-fourths controlled and one-fourth free.

The more conscientious Cabinet ministers, and particularly the earnest and intensely hard-working Sir Stafford Cripps, are deeply troubled. They believe in the experiment now going forward here in "social democracy," to use Sir Stafford's own phrase. At the same time, however, they recognize it may not work in an economy half free and half controlled.

Does this mean, then, that the Government must go the whole way on controls? An important step, for example, would be the direction of labor.

"Gray Market" in Jobs.

Under the present law, a man out of employment who goes to a Government exchange seeking work is given a choice of four or five jobs in essential industry. If it is necessary to leave his family and live in another neighborhood, he is given a living allowance. But he cannot be ordered to take a particular job. Nor can women be compelled to go into essential industry, as they were in wartime.

That is the gap in the control system. Through that gap many people filter into black or gray-market activities. The other evening, the B.B.C., in one of a series of radio programs on England's future, put on an ex-service man just returned, who discussed seriously whether he should take an approved job at a comparatively low wage or should take something in the gray market at a much higher rate.

This gap cannot be closed. It would be political suicide to try to impose such controls. The very grave danger, therefore, is that more and more of the economy will slip out from under present halfway controls.

Unrationed Inflation.

What this can mean and how to prevent it is a subject that is receiving ever more serious consideration. Liberal economists, who recognize the need to keep at least a minimum of controls in the present period of scarcity, argue cogently that the Government should put more confidence in the price system and the law of supply and demand.

"The true choice," F. L. Paish of the University of London wrote recently, "is not between plan and no plan, but between planning through the price system and planning against it."

Paish denounced the kind of controls that make for "conflicting incentives." Under such conflicts, respect for law and government breaks down. The end, Paish warned, is "frustration, poverty and perhaps disaster."

A similar warning came from W. Manning Dacey, economic adviser to Lloyd's bank, speaking on the B.B.C., which is, incidentally, a Government corporation. Dacey pointed to the serious inflation in England—an inflation not in the pound that goes to buy rationed necessities but in the pound spent on unrationed commodities, such as tobacco, drinks and entertainment.

Hard on Pensioners.

The pound spent on these commodities is worth only a little more than a third of the prewar pound. The pound spent on food will still buy about four-fifths of what it bought before 1939.

The Government's newest austerity measures, and those yet to come, will inevitably hit hard, especially on the low and middle income groups. Conscientious Sir Stafford Cripps is afraid that persons living on old-age pensions and those on the lowest salaries will be seriously harmed. Adjustments, complicated and difficult, will have to be made for extreme hardship cases.

That is, of course, the great difficulty in a controlled or a partially controlled economy. You press one button intended to change one set of circumstances and you are immediately confronted with another condition in need of correction.

But Britain's Labor planners are not ready to admit defeat in this experiment in "social democracy." Whether they will continue to have a majority of the country with them is something else again.

DOROTHY THOMPSON

The Evasive 'Warmonger' Resolution

THE anti-warmongering resolution passed by the United Nations General Assembly is a contemptible example of the way representatives of states pass their failures on to the people. The resolution "condemns all forms of propaganda, in whatsoever country conducted, which is either likely to provoke or encourage any threat to the peace, or action of aggression."

What is "propaganda?" The publication of facts?

What is "likely" to provoke or encourage a threat to peace?

The assumption is that wars are made by talk of war. Exactly the opposite is true. Talk of war develops out of the visible presence of the danger of war arising from the actions or failures to act of powerful armed states, who then seek to cover their failures by attaching responsibility to those who expose them.

Warren Austin

The End Is War.

The fact is that we already are engaged in a political war, and that recourse to arms is its predictable outcome. War will not be averted by attempting to pretend that things are different from the way they are, but only by a radical change of policy. The substitution of enforceable law for armed decisions or the possibility of them in international disputes.

War is the settlement of disputes by violence. Peace is the rule of law. War is the inevitable result of power politics which operates under an immemorable law of its own. That law demands that for every dreadful weapon discovered by one powerful state a worse one must be found by its "potential" enemy. It demands that each expansion of power by one state be balanced by expansion of power by its rival.

When Scholars Argue.

Power politics destroys every vestige of morality. It begins by powerful states establishing themselves in "spheres of influence" through collusion at the downfall of the weak.

These states then quarrel over still unsettled areas of power between them and mobilize every political means to capture the areas without open war—until the two rivalries directly confront each other. Then one commits a positive aggression (which also may be provoked), the other "defends," and afterward scholars dispute over the "guilt" question.

Attack on Middle Class.

Violent revolution is also war. For 100 years, the International Communist party has preached and waged war for the unconditional surrender of the entire "bourgeoisie." It is the party of "class war." Since the founding of the Soviet Union, revolution has been an international instrument for the defense of the Russian state and the expansion of its power.

For that purpose, citizens of all other states have been trained in Russia—trained in fomenting industrial strife, capturing trade unions and reformist groups, committing sabotage, mastering guerrilla tactics, inciting mob assaults and actually handling weapons—from guns to dynamite.

Violent revolutions waged on behalf of the policies of a state have created and are fomenting civil wars, leading to interventions and international war, within the framework of power politics. Mr. Vishinsky, who talks peace, is blocking peace in Germany and Austria, and Soviet agents are making war in Italy and France. Mr. Austin, who talks peace, is making power politics leading to war.

Talk of Pharisees.

Representatives of no country have ever proposed a comprehensive plan for defining the rights and duties of states in law, and for transferring adjudicating and enforcement powers to international judicial and enforcement agencies—thus reposing force entirely on the side of law, which is the definition of peace. On the contrary, each state is preparing to "enforce peace" on the basis of its own concept of law—which is war.

Every speech, therefore, that comes out of Lake Success is, to a greater or lesser degree, pharisaical and hypocritical.

The people of the whole world see it, and are filled with disgust and fear.

SLOVAK CABINET RESIGNS UNDER LEFTIST ATTACK

Government's Fall Follows Action of Democratic Party Deputy Premier, Who Quit.

PRAGUE, Nov. 1 (AP)—The Slovak government's official Bratislava radio said last night that the entire government had resigned in the face of Labor Federation demands for a housecleaning of cabinet ministers.

The radio said the resignations were announced by Gustave Husak, chairman of the cabinet, which in the partly self-governing Slovak state corresponds to the premier's cabinet for Czechoslovakia. Husak, it added, also informed Czechoslovakia's Communist Premier Klement Gottwald of the step.

In Prague the government presidium said it knew nothing more of the development.

Sources close to Slovak Democratic party leaders, who have borne the brunt of left-wing attacks in Slovakia, said, however, that the Democratic party had not yet given its assent to Husak's move.

No successor has been announced for Dr. Jan Ursiny, Slovak Democratic deputy premier, who resigned Thursday because of suspicions of conspiracy cast upon a former secretary.

U.S. CONSIDERING DOLLAR AID UNDER MARSHALL PLAN

the extent of American aid since the end of World War II, said Congress has already authorized $4,500,000,000 in foreign relief "in the current fiscal year and beyond." Of this sum, he said, nearly $60,000,000 has been earmarked for Russia and its satellites.

Byrd, who is head of a joint committee on reduciton of nonessential federal expenditures, said current appropriations have set aside more than $2,500,000,000 for eight major countries of western Europe, including France, Italy and Germany; more than $1,000,000,000 for China, Japan, Korea and the Philippines; and more than $500,000,000 for numerous small nations of the world.

Officials who have expressed concern over how much this country can afford to spend for foreign help without damaging the home-front economy received some comfort from the President's council of economic advisers. This group is reported to have told President Truman that the Marshall plan can actually help — rather than hurt—the stability of American prosperity.

One official said the council's report, to be made public tonight, will advise that the sending of more American billions to Europe will not have an inflationary reaction at home if it is accompanied by certain regulatory safeguards. Truman is expected to outline his ideas on those safeguards in a message to Congress opening the Nov. 17 session on emergency foreign aid and high prices.

Italian Ambassador Alberto Tarchiani said yesterday Italy will need financial help from the United States before Congress acts on stop-gap relief funds.

After an hour-long meeting with Assistant Secretary of State Norman Armour, the Italian envoy said the arrival of coal and wheat in Italy early next year must not be allowed to stop.

"We must begin to buy now," he said. "But we cannot buy now because we have no money."

Lauritz Melchior Bags Deer, Elk.

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 1 (AP)—Lauritz Melchior, Metropolitan Opera tenor, stopped in Salt Lake City last night long enough to report success as a hunter. Dressed in a colorful hunting costume, Melchior changed planes here en route from the Jackson Hole country of Wyoming to Los Angeles. He said he bagged a deer and an elk in the Wyoming expedition.

Flashes of Life

Loud Pedal.

BALTIMORE — Devotees of Orpheus won a victory in a noisy age when a criminal court judge ruled here that a music school did not constitute a "loud and unseemly" nuisance.

Judge Joseph Sherbow admitted that even one small child practicing at home can make listeners feel that "silence is a wonderful thing" but pointed out that commercial interests have brought many new sounds to the changing conditions of city life.

Larry London, acquitted of the nuisance charge brought by neighbors, said music emanating from his school is frequently drowned out by the din of passing streetcars.

Breezy Boy.

HARTFORD, Conn.—Manager Francis Donohue of the Social Security office here told of a youth who breezed into his office, gave his girl friend's name and demanded: "I'd like to know her salary to be sure she is earning enough to get married on."

When Donahue told him that such matters were confidential, the youth, insisting it was his "right as an American citizen" to receive the information, tore up his own social security card and stalked out, vowing he never again would pay social security taxes.

He failed to explain how he planned to evade the tax which is deducted at his salary source —1 per cent on the first $3000.

FACULTY CLUB PARTY HONORS THE CORIS

Scroll Given Pair Sharing '47 Nobel Prize With Argentine Doctor.

Dr. Carl Ferdinand Cori and his wife, Dr. Gerty Theresa Cori, who share the 1947 Nobel prize in medicine with Dr. B. A. Houssay of Buenos Aires, were honored by their colleagues of the Washington University faculty at a party last night in the Women's Building on the campus.

Prof. Carl A. Dauten, president of the Faculty Club, presented a scroll congratulating them on their "outstanding achievement in receiving the Nobel prize in medicine."

The scroll continued: "We are proud to be your colleagues and wish you continued success and God's blessing in your work." Signers of the scroll were Dauten and Mrs. Willis H. Reals, president of the Women's Club of the university, composed of wives of faculty members and women teachers.

About 200 persons attended the party. Dr. Joseph Erlanger, professor emeritus of physiology in the School of Medicine, winner of the Nobel prize in medicine and physiology in 1944, joined other faculty members in extending personal congratulations to the Coris, as he had done Oct. 23, when it became known at the medical school that they had won the prize.

The fourth Nobel prize winner of the university faculty, Chancellor Arthur H. Compton, took an airplane from Chicago, hoping to attend the ceremones, but rain kept the plane from landing here and it went on to Memphis. Dr. Compton shared the Nobel prize in physics in 1927 with Prof. C. T. R. Wilson of Cambridge University, England.

When the scroll was presented to the Coris in the lounge, both smiled and bowed to the group, but neither spoke in response. Later they joined in the grand march, dancing and games in the gymnasium.

The biochemist and his wife won the prize for their research discoveries explaining the manner in which starch in converted into sugar in the body. Each will receive $16,307 as his share of the prize.

A fifth St. Louis Nobel prize winner is Dr. Edward A. Doisy, professor of biochemistry at St. Louis University School of Medicine, who won the award in 1943 in medicine and physiology.

SCRUGGS GIVING BONUS BONDS TO REGULAR EMPLOYE GROUPS

Each regular employe who began working at Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney department store prior to last Jan. 1 will receive a United States savings bond with a maturity value of $50 as a bonus payment, it was announced today.

Regular employes hired since Jan. 1 and before July 1 will receive a $25 bond. Total amount of the bonus, based on maturity value of the bonds, is about $100,000, the announcement said. This is the seventh year in which the bonus has been paid.

New electric stairways, providing transportation between the first and fourth floors, were placed in operation for the first time today. They are located off the main aisle near the center of the store. Frank M. Mayfield, company president, said a new air-conditioning system is being installed and should be operating by summer.

ST. LOUIS U. GETS SUM WASHINGTON REFUSED

Executors Required No Racial Discrimination in Use of Law Scholarships.

A $15,000 scholarship fund to assist law students without discrimination because of color, which was rejected Thursday by Washington University after initial acceptance, was ordered turned over to St. Louis University yesterday by Probate Judge Glendy B. Arnold.

St. Louis University has accepted the gift, which was established under the will of Mrs. Flora S. Frank, it was announced by Jesse A. Wolfort, one of the executors of the estate. The university has been admitting Negroes as students for several years.

Washington University, which admits Negroes only to its medical school, turned down the fund after Vice Chancellor Charles Belknap said in a statement that university officials had differed with the executors over interpretation of the terms of the gift. The executors' interpretation, he said, "involved the possibility of shaping the admissions policy of the school of law."

At the time Washington first accepted the gift, a university official said admission of Negroes was not involved and that there would be no change in the school's policy on Negroes.

Under terms of Mrs. Frank's will, the fund was to be turned over to a university to assist law students at the discretion of the executors. Terms of the gift, as specified by the executors, were that "there be no discrimination in the selection of students to be assisted nor in granting of assistance because of race, religion, color, place of origin, nationality or sex."

The fund is known as the Emil S. Strauss Fund, in memory of Mrs. Frank's brother, a retired millinery merchant, who died in 1939, leaving an estate estimated at $321,480. Mrs. Frank died last year.

CITY HOLDS EX-OFFICIAL'S CHECK PENDING REPORT

Comptroller Louis Nolte's office is withholding payment of $295 salary for the last two weeks of October to Thor W. Bruce, former assistant personnel director, pending receipt of an opinion from the City Counselor's office as to whether the payment would be permissiable in view of Bruce's appointment Oct. 14 as auditor for the Board of Education, it was announced today.

Nolte asked for the opinion, it was said in his office, because state law prohibits a person from being on the payroll of more than one political subdivision at the same time.

Bruce was among the more than 600 city employes dismissed in Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann's economy drive. His dismissal was made effective today, because of accumulated vacation time.

CARNEGIE MEDAL TO WIDOW OF RESCUER OF 3 CHILDREN

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 1 (UP)—The Carnegie Hero Fund Commission yesterday awarded a bronze medal to the widow of Richard R. Eustice, 29 years old, who lost his life trying to save five small children in a fire at Laton, Calif., June 16, 1946.

After running up a flaming stairway, Eustice saved the Ellis children, Bonnie, 6, Leon, 7, and Wanda, 8, by lowering them to their father. Then he tried to carry out of the house his own three- and five-year-old daughters, but fell at the doorway, his shirt and hair ablaze. One daughter died in the fire and Eustice and the other daughter died later.

ACCORD ON EASING BRITISH COSTS IN REICH REPORTED

U. S. Understood to Have Agreed to Pay $250,000,000 of England's Western Zone Expenses.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (AP)—The United States and Britain are expected to reach agreement, probably early next week, on an arrangement by which this country will assume around $250,000,000 of British costs in the western zones of Germany.

The agreement is also expected to provide that the United States will assume a greater authority in top economic agencies of the British-American zones. Officials are emphatic in declaring, however, that this increased voice in economic affairs will not in any way infringe on the basic economic and political partnership which the two powers have developed there.

American and British officials on Oct. 8 began discussing a British request for the United States to take over Britain dollar costs in Germany. The talks were suspended last week while several critical questions were referred to the British Cabinet for decision. That decision is now understood to have been reached, at least in large part, and one highly placed informant predicted that the talks would be resumed shortly and agreement reached early next week.

The United States, it was learned, has already agreed "in principle" to the British proposal which was made because the British are short of dollars. Major requirements in the western German zones are food and other supplies which, in the main, can be bought only with dollars.

The British have been spending about $400,000,000 a year to maintain the civilian economy of their part of the merged British-American zones. Of that amount $280,000,000 has actually been spent in dollars and the rest, amounting to $120,000,000, has been spent in pounds sterling.

During the negotiations here the British are understood to have indicated that they would be able to buy more of the supplies required in Germany with pounds sterling, the total of the increase being about $70,000,000. This, under the prospective new arrangement would increase the British expenditure in pounds to about 120,000,000 and fix the new total cost to be assumed by the United States for next year at about $210,000,000.

In addition, the British asked for relief from some remaining dollar expenditures this year beginning in early October. This is reported to total about $40,000,000, making the grand total of prospective additional American expenditures in Germany from the present through next year approximately $250,000,000.

ST. LOUISANS WANT PRESUMED NAZI VICTIMS DECLARED DEAD

Suit to declare legally dead two sisters who disappeared after being taken to a Nazi concentration camp, so that their $11,500 estate might be distributed, was filed in Circuit Court today by their nieces.

The petition, directed against the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co., as trustee, and David L. Bazelon, alien property custodian of the United States, was filed on behalf of Mrs. Ethel Gossman Kopman, Mrs. Leah G. Horwitz and Mrs. June G. Geist, all of St. Louis. They are daughters of Charles E. Gossman, a wholesale electric supply dealer, who died in 1929, leaving a trust fund to two sisters, Miss Elise Gossman and Miss Margaret Gossman, of Berlin.

Until May 1936, it is stated in the petition, the sisters received an income from the fund but when Hitler came into power they directed that it be paid to a nephew, Dr. H. P. Gossman of New York. After the United States entered the war no further remittances were made since the sisters were regarded as enemy aliens.

After the war, in August 1946, Dr. Gossman went to Berlin to search for them, but was informed by a neighbor who had lived in the same apartment house with them that they had been taken to a concentration camp in 1942 and had not since been heard from.

RAIN KEEPS 'AUNT EMMA,' 85, FROM 'TRICK-OR-TREAT' OUTING

PRINCETON, Mo., Nov. 1 (UP)—Halloween here was a disappointing event in Princeton because a drizzling rain prevented "Aunt Emma" from going out for "tricks or treats."

Aunt Emma is Mrs. Emma Boyd, 85 years old, who annually has joined a group of children on their Halloween prowls.

Last night she had a date with J. Frank Kauffman, 10; his brother, Henry, 9, and Steven Worsham, 8, and his sister, Paula, 4. Aunt Emma had spent all week preparing a fancy costume for each member of the group, including one for herself.

Then the weather turned nasty and Aunt Emma decided she'd better forego goblin activities this year, especially in view of a planned trip to Houston, Tex., next week to visit a daughter, Mrs. Maggie Snyder. She said, however, she'd get out with the kids for some other kind of lark as soon the the weather cleared up.

FACTORY WORKER'S PURCHASING POWER LESS THAN IN 1942

Still $5.96 a Week Above That of 1939, Department of Labor Says.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (UP)—The Department of Labor said today that the purchasing power of the average factory worker with three dependents has declined since 1942, but on Sept. 1 was still $5.96 above the last peacetime year of 1939.

The department said that average weekly earnings of $45.88 in January this year bought $29.75 worth of goods at 1939 prices. By Sept. 1, earnings had risen to $47.61 but in terms of 1939 buying power they had dropped to $29.58, or 17 cents. This $29.58 purchasing power was $5.96 above the $23.62 buying power of the 1939 average weekly earnings.

It was lower, however, than the average factory worker's purchasing power in the five preceding years. The department gave these comparisons, all still based on purchasing power of $23.62 a week in 1939: 1940, $24.75; 1941, $27.67; 1942, $30.96; 1943, $33.30; 1944, $34.89; 1945, $33.08, and 1946, $30.78.

The net spendable weekly earnings were computed by the department after deducting social security and income taxes. Figures for each period then were converted by the department into purchasing power in terms of 1939 dollars.

ZONING ORDINANCE TERMED HARMFUL TO HOME AREAS

tricts would in turn be surrounded by single-family districts.

This basic scheme of land use corresponds generally with the past growth and existing arrangement of the city.

The city passed its first zoning ordinance in 1918 and was the second large city to adopt one. However, the ordinance was declared unconstitutional by the State Supreme Court in 1923. For two and a half years there was no ordinance of any kind and not until 1926 was a new effort made to establish some form of zoning, the report recalled.

Meanwhile, about $10,000,000 was spent for buildings which were "inharmonious with the districts established by the original ordinance," the plan commission said. "This development created a blighted district in the large, older residence areas west of Grand boulevard. This area has never recovered, nor has there been enough apartment house construction to absorb the whole area. On May 26, 1926, a revised and badly compromised zoning plan became effective. This ordinance is still in effect."

There have been "several unfortunate amendments to the ordinance," the report continued. "Many of the approximately 215 amendments were directed toward lowering restrictions on some small area, frequently from a residence to a business use or even from residence to industry.

"There is an apparent need for a wholesale overhauling of both the text of the ordinance and the district map. This can only be done by preparing a completely new set of regulations and districts."

Residential property pays about the same taxes as all other classes of property combined, "but zoning has failed to protect this huge investment," the report declared. "About a third of the land in residential use is zoned for a lower classification, such as commerce or industry.

"Movement of population away from the older central areas of the city is induced by present zoning and yet nearly every month ordinances are proposed converting more residential property to some lower classification. St. Louis is practically alone as a large city which has no residential areas zoned exclusively for single-family residences.

"St. Louis needs a major revision of its zoning ordinance upward in harmony with established uses —not progressively downward to satisfy unsound speculative demands. The fact that there is inadequate residential zoning means that prospective home owners move to the county, where they can find better protection in deed restrictions or zoning."

The proposed zoning ordinance would divide the city into 11 districts. There would be one single-family district, a two-family district, four-family section, two multiple-family districts, local business area, two commercial sections, a central business district, an industrial area and an unrestricted district.

Owners of two-family dwellings, group houses and multiple dwellings would be required to furnish parking space for tenants. Hotels would be required to provide parking for one machine for each four guest rooms. Churches and schools with assembly halls also would have to furnish parking areas.

UNIONS CHEERED BY RESIGNATION OF RENT DIRECTOR

They Believe Creedon's Going Is a Sign Hold-Line Policy Has Been Revived.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (UP)—Organized labor hailed the resignation of rent director Frank Creedon today as a sign that the Administration has revived its hold-the-line policy on rents.

Union sources were cheered further by the statement of Creedon's successor, Tighe E. Woods, that he is convinced "now more than ever" that rent controls must be continued.

Creedon had been under heavy fire from labor and consumer groups for the last several weeks, since he approved a general rent increase for Louisville (Ky.) landlords. The opposition became increasingly bitter when an aid said Creedon's policy was to sanction almost automatically all local board recommendations for higher rents.

Union Demanded Dismissal.

Harvey W. Brown, president of the independent International Association of Machinists, had demanded that President Truman fire Creedon. The AFL and CIO had called for a firm policy on rents.

Creedon, a construction engineer by profession, quit to supervise the building of a new atomic energy installation for General Electric Co. at Hanford, Wash. Truman accepted his resignation "with reluctance."

Creedon's resignation was so sudden that Woods did not even know he had been chosen to succeed him until told by reporters. A 37-year-old former real estate man, he had served as Creedon's deputy director.

"Big Name" May Get Job.

There was some speculation that Woods was not the President's permanent choice for the post, and that a "big-name" administrator might be appointed later.

Woods said in an interview that production of housing for rent had "failed miserably" and that as things now stand he probably will recommend that Congress extend the rent law. It is due to expire March 1.

He said early returns from local rent boards show plainly that "the people themselves believe continued controls are necessary." Of about 75 local board proposals received by the rent director to date, all but 20 urged that present ceilings be retained.

Woods said he hoped that "the words of the local boards will sell Congress on rent control."

Though the rent law gives the local boards considerable authority, Woods emphasized that their recommendations will not necessarily be taken "at face value."

Members of his staff, he said, are being sent to communities where general rent increases have been proposed. They will gather the facts, and each case will be judged on its merits.

Where decontrol is suggested, he said, the local board must show conclusively that the need for housing has been satisfied substantially.

MICHIGAN 14, ILLINOIS 7; LONG RUNS THRILL 70,000

74-YARD RETURN OF PUNT BY BUMPS ELLIOTT; STEGER STOPPED AFTER 53 YARDS

Michigan	7	7	0	0	14
Illinois	0	7	0	0	7

FIRST QUARTER.

Michigan won the toss and elected to defend the north goal, having the wind advantage. On the second play of the game, Chappuis's pass was intercepted by Stewart on Michigan's 48 and returned to the 29. Three plays later, Steger fumbled and Michigan's Dworsky recovered on the Wolverine 21. The Wolverines then made four straight first downs, from their own 21 to the Illinois 16, where Derricotte fumbled and Bingaman recovered for Illinois. A 16-yard pass from Derricotte to Elliott and 14-yard runs by Derricotte and Elliott had sparked the Michigan drive.

Illinois made a first down on its 27, but was forced to kick. The Wolverines sputtered in midfield and punted. After the Illini failed to gain, Eddleman punted to Bumps Elliott, who grabbed the ball on his 26 and raced 74 yards down the sidelines for a touchdown. Key blocks in the payoff sprint were thrown by Mann and Rifenburg to spring Elliott free in midfield. Brieske converted and the Wolverines led 7-0, as the first period ended.

SECOND QUARTER.

Steger broke loose for 53 yards and was brought down from behind on Michigan's 15 by Pete Elliott. The Illinois fullback was in the clear, but failed to outrun Elliott. A short pass from Moss to Dufelmeier moved the ball to the six. On fourth down, with inches to go, Michigan was offside, moving the Illini to the Wolverine one. Steger squirmed across for a touchdown. Maechtle kicked the point, making the score Illinois 7, Michigan 7.

After an exchange of punts, including a 52-yard quick kick by Eddleman, the Wolverines marched 78 yards for another touchdown with Fonde bowling across from the Illini 10. Brieske again converted to give Michigan a 14-7 lead. Key play in the touchdown drive was a Chappuis-Bump Elliott pass which covered 32 yards to the Illinois five. A penalty set the ball back to the 10, from where Fonde charged across on a power cut-back through Illinois' right tackle.

The Illini fought back with a march from their own 20 to the Wolverine 27, but Moss's pass was intercepted by Bump Elliott on Michigan's eight. Weisenburger scampered 30 yards, but Steger intercepted Chappuis' pass as the half ended with Michigan in front, 14-7.

Illinois received to open the second half and marched from its 22 to the Michigan 20 before the Wolverines stiffened and took over. Steger spearheaded the drive, banging off Michigan's tackles for big gains and grabbing a 10-yard pass from Moss, who also connected with Owens for 14 yards. In the Illini drive, Michigan's ace defensive tackle, Ay Wistert, was injured and left the field. Michigan, sparked by Chappuis's running, advanced from the Wolverine 25 to the Illini 39, but was set back to midfield by a holding penalty.

The teams battled out the remainder of a scoreless period in midfield. The Wolverines nudged into Illini territory on a Chappuis-to-Fonde pass, but Michigan was in motion. Chappuis fired a 25-yard pass to Mann, but the Michigan end shoved Stewart on the play and the Wolves were called for interference, punting to Illinois's 35 as the quarter ended. Score: Michigan 14, Illinois 7.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 1—Missouri took advantage of early opportunities and scored three touchdowns against Nebraska in the first half this afternoon as the Tigers and Cornhuskers played for the Big Six Conference lead before a crowd of about 20,000.

After Verlie Abrams recovered a first period Nebraska fumble on the Huskers' 41 Harold (Bus) Entsminger ran for one first down, passed 13 yards to Roland Oakes for another on the nine-yard line and then slipped through the four-yard line, where, as he was tackled, he lateralled to Bill Day, who went over untouched.

In the second quarter Oakes blocked John Pesek's fourth-down punt, Loyd Brinkman returned the ball 16 yards to the 20, and on second down, Entsminger, again faking a pitchout lateral, cut inside left end for a score.

Bob Dawson, the place-kick specialist, added the extra points after the three touchdowns.

FIRST QUARTER.

Missouri won the toss and elected to defend the North goal with a substantial wind advantage. Day kicked to the Nebraska 2 and Hutton returned to the Husker 22. After three running plays, Nebraska's Pesek punted to Entsminger who returned to the Missouri 46. Day's return punt slid off the side of his foot and out of bounds on the Nebraska 34. On the first running play, Brinkman recovered C. Fischer's fumble on the Nebraska 35. The Tigers returned the favor, with Brinkman fumbling immediately and Pesek recovering for Nebraska on the Husker 42. It became a comedy of errors, as Hutton fumbled again, with Abrams recovering for Missouri on the Nebraska 41.

Entsminger and Bonnett carried three times for first down on the Husker 28. Braznell's pass to Oakes in the clear at the goal line was incomplete as the ball was high and the receiver fell. After two running plays, however, Entsminger passed to Oakes for first down on the eight, and on the next play Entsminger ran wide and lateralled to Day on the four-yard line, with Day carrying across for a touchdown. Dawson kicked the extra point and Missouri led 7-0.

Mueller returned Day's kick to the Nebraska 36 and made a first down with a 12-yard sprint, but the Huskers bogged down and punted out on the Tiger 21. Day quick-kicked 70 yards to Mueller on the Nebraska 10, where he was downed by Fuchs. Mueller, Adams and Fischer rushed for a first down on the Tiger 20, but the next two plays lost a couple of yards as the quarter ended. Score: Missouri 7, Nebraska 0.

SECOND QUARTER.

Unable to gain, Pesek punted and it was blocked by Oakes, with Brinkman returning the ball to the Nebraska 20. Braznell threw a futile pass into the end zone before Entsminger broke into the clear and raced 20 yards to a touchdown, going over standing up. Dawson's try for point was good and the score was Missouri 14, Nebraska 0.

Day kicked to the 16, with Fischer returning to the Nebraska 37. Nebraska lost eight yards on two pass attempts, and Wiegand's third throw was intercepted by Missouri's Carras who returned 21 yards to the Nebraska 43.

Brinkman rushed for 12 yards and Volz and Entsminger made another first down on the Husker 20. One rushing attempt and three passes failed, and Nebraska took the ball on downs on its 19. The Huskers punted, with Entsminger returning 21 yards to the Nebraska 42. Brinkman fumbled, however, and Novak recovered for Nebraska on the Husker 40. Nebraska punted out 40.

After a running play, Thompson attempted a pass which Missouri's Fuchs intercepted and raced 50 yards to a touchdown. Dawson's kick was good and the score was 21 to 0.

Moomey returned Sheehan's kick 10 yards to the Nebraska 30. Running plays again were futile, and Pesek punted to Sauer, who lateralled to Kling and the latter returned to the Missouri 25.

Set back for a holding penalty, the Tigers were forced to kick and Day's boot went out on the Missouri 49. After three plays, Pesek punted and the ball rolled dead on the Missouri 2. There were offside penalties for each side before Entsminger ran out the clock with three quarterback sneaks that netted seven yards. Score: Missouri 21, Nebraska 0.

A. A. Stagg's Old Team Wins Over San Jose; Bowl Game in Sight

SAN JOSE, Calif., Nov. 1 (AP)—A January 1 date in the Fresno, Calif., Raisin Bowl was a virtual certainty today for little College of Pacific, victory by 14-0 last night over San Jose State College, the chief rival of the Tigers in the California Collegiate Athletic Association.

The Raisin Bowl nod goes to the CCAA champion, an honor C.O.P. had almost within its grasp today after getting its first win since 1931 over the Spartans.

Relatively weak opposition is before the Tigers from here on out, not likely to withstand the power that enabled C.O.P. to turn two pass interceptions into touchdowns last night.

Quarterback Bob Heck was the key man in both scores. In the first period he grabbed San Jose State Quarterback Jim Jackson's pass in midfield and boomed 50 yards behind good blocking to score.

Another pass interception by Heck in the second period was followed by a 50-yeard touchdown dash by right half Bruce Orvis two plays later.

The crowd of 14,693 was the largest ever to witness a game in Spartan Stadium.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (UP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers squeezed out a 7 to 3 victory over the winless Chicago Rockets last night in an All-American Conference football game paralyzed by driving rain and piercing cold.

Only 2950 fans braved the weather to watch the two weakest clubs in the league. What they saw at Ebbets Field resembled only faintly a professional football game, bearing more similarity to a neighborhood mud fight.

Bears Even With Illinois Normal After Half, 7-7

NORMAL, Ill., Nov. 1 — Two crimson and white clad elevens, looking like the opposite sides of a coin met with Illinois State Normal kicking off to Washington University before 5000 spectators here this afternoon, the remnant of a home-coming crowd frightened away by threatening skies and a brisk northeast wind.

A fighting mad Normal team, keyed by St. Louis newspaper clippings kicked to Washington University and tossed the Bears back 13 yards to their own 11 in three scrimmage tries. Henry Christmann punted out of bounds on the Bear 39.

Gene Stratman peeled off a first down on the 23. Stratman, Trumpy and Dal Santo carried to a first down on the four. The Bears held for one down, but Stratman skirted his right end for a touchdown. Dean Burridge converted with a placement. Gerstung returned the kickoff to the Bear 13. Christmann, Winner and Rawlings teamed on a first down on the 25. The Cardinals stiffened and the two teams exchanged punts. Normal gained on the exchange, Baker booting to the three. Two Winner plunges and a penalty made a first down on the 15. Where Normal held as the quarter ended. Score: Normal 7; Washington 0.

SECOND QUARTER.

Washington punted to the Normal 48. Stratman sparked Normal to a first down on the Bear 28. Stratman was injured and left the game. Brady passed to Morelli for a first down on the 15. Washington stemmed the advance inches short of a first down on the five. Christmann punted to the Normal 47. The Cardinals were penalized 15 yards for holding and fumbled on the next play. Ebele slammed to the four, then the one-foot line and scored on third down. Schocknecht converted with placement, to toe the score at 7-7.

State Normal was forced to punt after receiving the kickoff. The half ended with the ball in Washington's possession on their own 30. Score: Washington U. 7, Normal 7.

Worsham and Oliver Lead in Ryder Cup, 6 Up

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 1 (UP)—Ed (Porky) Oliver and National Open Champion Lew Worsham took a commanding six-up lead over Capt. Henry Cotton and Arthur Lees of Great Britain at the end of the first 18 holes in their 36-hole Scotch foursome in the opening round of play in the Ryder Cup matches today.

After the first nine holes had been played in a drenching rainstorm, the clouds moved away and the sun broke through on the water-logged course as a handful of spectators braved the elements to follow the first international golf match in 10 years.

Worsham and Oliver posted a one-over-par 73 on the tricky Portland layout, compared with a 70 for the British team.

Slammin' Sammy Snead, former British Open champion, teamed with slender Lloyd Mangrum, ex-United States Open titleholder, to take a six-up lead at the end of 18 over the British combine of Fred Daly and Charley Ward.

The Snead-Mangrum pair outdrove the visitors and took advantage of extra yardage on the second shots, as the British men were short on their approaches all the way around. The result was a one-under-par 71 for the Americans, compared with a 77 for the invaders.

Then He Knew It Was His Birthday—First 300 Game at Bevo in 10 Years

Claude Patterson Jr., rolling with the first-place Kutis team in the Bevo Classic League, celebrated his twenty-second birthday last night by posting a perfect game at the Bevo Lanes. It was his first 300 game and the first to be made at Bevo for 10 years, since the present management took control.

Patterson started off with a 191 game, posted the 300 and then came back with an even 200 for a 691 series. Pat, a Navy veteran, received $50 for the 300 score from the Bevo management.

The Kutis team scored a 3-0 victory over the J. S. Morris Novelty five, scoring a high three-game total of 2999. Kutis has a 29-10 record.

Don't Overlook Cameron!

LAWTON, Okla., Nov. 1 (AP)—The Cameron State Agricultural College Aggies remained among the nation's few unbeaten football teams today after beating Northeastern Oklahoma State College here last night, 27-6. The Aggies, playing to a home crowd, used alternating single-wing and T-formation squads to extend their straight victories to 10—seven this season—and clinch at least a tie for the Oklahoma junior collegiate crown.

Cerdan, Down Third Time at Bell, Is Victor

CHICAGO, Nov. 1 (AP)—Knocked down three times in the last round, Marcel Cerdan, the Casablanca clouter, lasted until the bell in Chicago Stadium last night to take a 10-round decision over Anton Raadik of Estonia and register the fourth ring triumph of his American tour.

Cerdan, who, after 100 victories in 102 bouts, seeks the middleweight world crown held by Rock Graziano, was scheduled to leave for New York today and thence to Casablanca, Morocco, to join his wife and three sons. He received word that his wife's brother had died in Casablanca and the family was grief stricken.

Cerdan, himself, was violently ill through exhaustion after his tough battle with Raadik but snapped out of it after treatment in his dressing room.

The Frenchman who is middleweight champion of Europe, carried the fight to Raadik most of the way but tired badly and was floored by round-house rights in the final round, once for a count of four and twice for counts of three. He was rising wobbily from the canvas when the bell ended the fight.

Referee Davey Miller voted 53-47 for Cerdan and the two judges gave him votes of 55-45 and 53-47.

Cerdan, who weighed 160 to the Estonian's 161½, peppered his rival with lefts and rights to pile up points in the first half of the fight and in the third round opened a gash over Raadik's eye.

Billikens Hope Skies Clear for Nevada Game

Clear weather and a dry field for the game tomorrow with University of Nevada at Walsh Stadium would make the football people at St. Louis. U. very happy, but the weather man has been slow to co-operate.

Thinking of the heavyweight Nevada line, which has been difficult for the opposition to run through even on a dry field and which would be hard to run around on a wet field, Billiken coaches had good reason to hope for a change in the weather.

There's a tarpaulin outfit at Walsh Stadium which may be used to cover the field if rain should continue, but there's always a question whether the gridiron cover helps or hinders. It was not used Friday.

After a week of testing injured arms and legs, members of the St. Louis squad still numbered several question marks among their ranks. Halfback Eddie Donohue will not be up to par. Roland Otto will be ready to go at tackle but may be re-injured easily. Bill Dolan is out for certain with a broken hand, and so is Pete Wismann with a leg ailment. End Carl Weisner, who has been out of action with a dislocated shoulder, is itching to get back into the game but may be limited to some kicking duty.

400-Mile Sailing Race on Lake Ontario

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Nov. 1 (AP)—A 400-mile sailing race on Lake Ontario will be sponsored annually by the Rochester Yacht Club, beginning next August.

The course, beginning and ending at Rochester, will be charted to Stony Island at the eastern end of the lake and to Toronto and Hamilton, Ont., the club announced last night. The proposed contest was described as the world's longest fresh water sailing race.

NOTRE DAME SINKS NAVY, 27-0, FOR FIFTH STRAIGHT

CLEVELAND, Nov. 1 (AP)—Notre Dame's mighty Irish rolled over Navy, 27 to 0, today for their fifth straight victory before a crowd of 84,117, to move a notch nearer the national championship.

The Irish capitalized on three Navy fumbles and an intercepted pass to score their four touchdowns and then halted Navy on the one-yard line in the closing seconds to stave off the only serious Middie threat.

It was Navy's fourth loss in six games.

Notre Dame	7	6	14	0	27

FIRST QUARTER.

Navy's Hawkins fumbled and then recovered for a first down on his own 27 shortly after the kickoff, but the Middies were forced to punt. The Irish booted back after two midfield passes by Lujack failed, and then the game settled down to a punting duel.

Neither team was able to gain, the big Irish forwards stopping the Middie backs, and the Navy defenders knocking down Lujack's aerials, but Navy crept slowly toward midfield in the punt exchanges, with Scott kicking for the Midshipmen.

The Irish finally got a break when Schwoeffermann of Navy fumbled on his own 44, Hart recovering for Notre Dame. Sitko plunged for a first down, and then the Irish cashed the break as Lujack passed 29 yards to Brennan in the end zone for a touchdown. Earley place-kicked the extra point and Notre Dame led, 7 to 0.

Navy punted dead on the Irish five as the period ended.

SECOND QUARTER.

Lujack faked a pass in his own end zone, then skirted end for 67 yards, only to fumble when tackled by Schwoefferman, Horne recovering for Navy on the Middie 22. However, after Navy went for a first down, Hawkins fumbled on his own 38 and Frampton recovered for the Irish.

Two plays later Tripucka passed 31 yards to Hart for a touchdown, Earley missing the extra point as the Irish took a 13-0 edge.

After the kickoff Navy moved for a first down on the 30, and then Baysinger passed 26 yards to Markel on the Irish 44, the first time the Middies had passed the midstripe. The Irish held, however, and Baysinger punted out on Notre Dame's 5.

Tripucka hit Waybright with a 15-yard pass and followed with a 35-yarder to McGee, but the Irish finally had to kick out on Navy's 19. Navy punted back, and the Irish took to the air again, Tripucka passing 17 to McGee, and Lujack 15 to Leonard, but Horne of Navy intercepted a long Lujack toss on his own three as the period ended with Notre Dame leading, 13 to 0.

THIRD QUARTER.

Navy tried a short onside kickoff, and Scott fell on the ball on the Irish 49 as the Middies maintained possession in the surprise maneuver. Horne passed to Markel for a first down on the 38, but then Hart of Notre Dame picked up Horne's fumble on the 46. A holding penalty moved the Irish back 15, but Lujack tossed four completed passes in a row, one to Brennan and three to Martin to reach the Navy 26.

The Irish moved right in for the touchdown, Brennan going over from the one after a Lujack to Brennan pass had gained 10, and the Brennan and Sitko pad moved up close on short jabs. Earley's placement was good and Notre Dame led, 20 to 0.

Navy took to the air on third down from its own 15 after the kickoff, Horne passing 35 to Schwoefferman and 29 to Ben Moore on consecutive plays to reach the Irish 21, where four passes failed and Notre Dame took over.

The Irish punted, but Earl fumbled and Fischer recovered for Notre Dame on the middle 37. A clipping penalty and McGee's 15-yard run moved the Irish to the seven, but Navy dug in and took the ball on the one-foot line.

Navy recovered McGee's fumble on the 35, but on the second play Bob Livingstone intercepted Horne's pass and raced 42 yards for the fourth Irish touchdown, and Earley converted to make it Notre Dame 27, Navy 0 as the period ended.

Lesnevich Knocks Out Mauriello in Seventh

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (AP)—Gus Lesnevich today held the Shaughnessy playoff championship over Tami Mauriello as well as the world's light heavyweight title.

Lesnevich had beaten the Bronx Barkeep in all three of their previous fights and if Mauriello had any doubts as to who was master it was very brutally removed last night in Madison Square Garden.

The Cliffside Park (N.J.) 175-pound king cut par for the course in his fourth chance before a crowd of 14,079 who welcomed boxing back to the big arena after a six-week run by the rodeo.

Mauriello had gone the route with Lesnevich in the first three but Referee Ruby Goldstein stopped last night's slaughter after 33 seconds of the seventh round and he might very well have curtailed the pig-sticking several rounds earlier. Lesnevich's title was not at stake.

Mauriello went down only once, a nine count in the fourth, result of a left to the jaw. But he was a doomed man from the first round on.

Although outweighed 180½ to 201½, Lesnevich carried the fight from the opening bell. The former Navy carpenter's mate clipped Mauriello with five rights to the head in the opener, as well as with assorted lefts and rights to the body.

Flyers in Spot To Gain Altitude

The Western Division standings of the American Hockey League seem to be in for another weekend shuffling, with all five clubs, separated by only three points in the standings, slated for action tonight and four more coming back miles away tomorrow.

Ebbie Goodfellow's Flyers, with four victories and a tie in eight starts, are only one point from the top berth shared currently by Pittsburgh and Indianapolis and could just as easily tie for first or last place before the final siren has sounded Sunday.

Tonight the Flyers visit Cleveland for the first time this season, then are to return home immediately for a Sunday engagement with Pittsburgh at The Arena. The Hornets, meanwhile, have an excellent chance to take an undisputed lead tonight when playing at home to Providence.

Here are a few of the examples of "killing" weekend schedules: Indianapolis plays at Hershey tonight, then at home tomorrow against Springfield, which tonight must travel all the way to its home base in Massachusetts; Buffalo goes from Springfield tonight to its home rink against Washington, which must travel from Philadelphia; Providence must get home from Pittsburgh on the overnight hop.

The Flyers have added a new defenseman in George Milligan, 21-year-old rookie from Fresno. Although the youngster worked out with the club here yesterday, he is not making the trip to Cleveland. It is possible that he will be in uniform here tomorrow. Hec Pozzo, veteran forward, also was left behind because of an ankle injured last Saturday.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 1 (AP) — Shorn of support by seven other American League clubs, Chicago White Sox General Manager Leslie M. O'Connor plans an unprecedented "lone hand" assault on Commissioner A. B. Chandler to escape a $500 fine and suspension for signing a high school pitcher.

The Chicago official, following a six-hour closed session yesterday in which the junior loop's club owners voted to replace him on baseball's executive council, said he would seek a restraining order against the commissioner's edict in Cincinnati Federal Court next week.

In Chicago O'Connor said "statements in morning papers I have read that 'American League upholds Chandler' and 'we recognize the commissioner's interpretation of the rules' are very inaccurate."

O'Connor said "the league was in accord with my view that Chandler was exceeding his authority in rewriting Rule 3 (I), the rule involved in this case."

Takes Another Exception.

He added that "the league did authorize President Harridge to appoint somebody to substitute for me at the next meeting of the executive council but only in the event that I should not be able to act.

"The league did that solely in order not to lose one of its votes on the executive council, and not because of any desire or intent to uphold or back Chandler."

Chandler, notified of the league's 7-0 vote to replace O'Connor, declared at his Versailles, Ky., home, that "naturally, I am appreciative of the confidence the American League has shown in me." The commissioner had requested President Will Harridge of the American League to make a replacement for O'Connor to participate in the Nov. 6-7 executive council session at Cincinnati, if the Chicago official were unable to act due to the suspension.

Again It's Up to O'Connor.

President Harridge said he had not made up his mind on whom to name to the executive council post, but that should the suspension against O'Connor be lifted through payment of the fine or any other procedure, the Chicagoan would continue to be the loop's representative at the sessions next week.

In Chicago, White Sox Publicity Director Ward Stevens said O'Connor had Commissioner Chandler "in a vise and there's nothing he (Chandler) can do about it. The club can't lose, no matter what the other American League officials did."

"From now on, any action is Mr. O'Connor's personal business, and that of the White Sox. Like any business, baseball is anxious to stay out of the courts, but the American League cannot prevent any member club from going into court.

"Speaking as the league's president, we recognize Commissioner Chandler's interpretation of the rules, and the league will not be a party to any court action."

Cause Behind the Cause.

O'Connor bases his case on the premise that the White Sox did not violate baseball rules in signing 17-year-old George Zoeterman of Chicago's Christian High School, since that institution is not a member of the National Federation of High Schools. Baseball law says students of federation schools may not be signed, but Chandler, in two bulletins issued earlier this year, ruled that students of all high schools are under the contract ban. O'Connor disputes Chandler's broadening of the rule interpretation.

"There is no more important matter before baseball today," the 59-year-old O'Connor said, "than whether the commissioner has the right to change rules as adopted by the executive council and major league officials, merely by his own edict.

"The other representatives here agreed that the commissioner was out of order, but wanted to keep the matter out of courts."

O'Connor and the White Sox club were suspended Oct. 29 for failure to pay a $500 fine levied Sept. 26 for the signing of the young left-hander.

Isn't Life Wonderful?

Harridge told reporters that although the club owners discussed the case at length during the long session, they "did not take a stand on whether Mr. O'Connor is right or wrong in this controversy."

"However," he continued, "the Chicago club is under suspension, and to function in baseball it must be reinstated or take some other action. If this were opening day the league would carry on with seven clubs because Chicago could not participate."

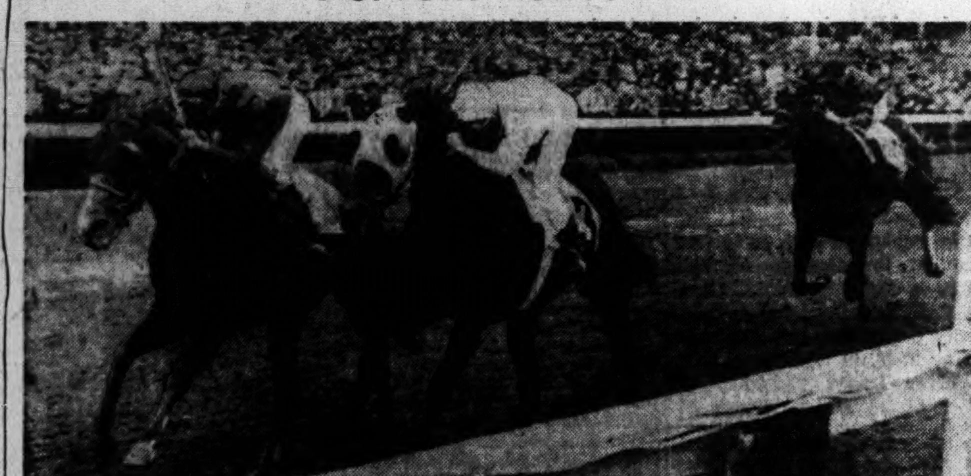

Although Harridge announced the closed session was called only to comply with Chandler's request that a replacement be named for O'Connor on the executive council, at least two clubs declared they were in favor of the commissioner.

Clark Griffith of Washington, represented at the session by his son Calvin, said he would stick by the rulings of Chandler, while Bill Veeck, president of the Cleveland Indians, said he thought O'Connor should not try to involve seven other American League clubs in a controversy with the commissioner.

East St. Louis Loses; Belleville In League Lead

Belleville, although idle after its game was postponed by rain, was alone at the top of the Southwestern Illinois High School Conference football race today because the East St. Louis Flyers suffered their first league defeat at Granite City, 6-0.

Slated to play Madison, Belleville put off the contest until Monday because of rain. The league leaders now have won three conference games without a defeat.

In other East Side league games Collinsville, paced by J. D. Anderson who scored two touchdowns, defeated Edwardsville, 24-7, and Wood River beat Alton, 6-0, on Gene Cook's score with only five minutes left in the game.

Non-league contests saw Principia winning from Farmington, 19-6, and Dupo turning back Chester, 7-0.

Paul Catalano caught a fluke punt and ran 20 yards in the openuing period for Principia's first touchdown. Howie Wentz scored in the second on an eight-yard plunge and this was followed by an 80-yard runback of the kick-off by Ewing for Farmington's lone counter. Bob Coffey made the final Principia touchdown on a 12-yard off-tackle play.

The Maplewood - Brentwood game, scheduled last night, was postponed and will be played Monday night at 8 p.m. on the Maplewood field.

Los Angeles Protests Salt Lake Grid Victory

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1 (UP)—A Los Angeles Bulldog protest was on file today with the Pacific Coast Football League over last Sunday's game with Salt Lake City.

Salt Lake won, 7-6. General Manager Al Foster of Los Angeles protested the last play of the game in which Bulldog Back Ob Schmidt recovered a Sea Gull fumble and ran for a touchdown. The referee said he blew his whistle before the recovery.

Okay Is Placed On Beau Jack's Questioned Leg

By W. J. McGoogan

Jack shadow boxed, punched the bag, then Dr. Cleary had him run up and down a flight of stairs, after which he was sent to another physician for an X-ray.

Jack, whose real name is Sidney Walker, suffered the first injury when he was training for a bout with Willie Joyce in Chicago last fall when he stepped on a loose board in a ring and cracked the knee cap. He was operated on and remained idle until January when he fought Tony Janiro in Madison Square Garden, his twenty-fifth appearance in that ring.

Again the knee gave way on him and another operation was necessary. He rested then all summer, doing only running and playing golf until six weeks ago when he began his daily drills in a gymnasium.

The bout here will be the first real test, however, but he and his physicians are confident that he will be able to go all right.

By EDWARD A. HARRIS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1—The big-city political machines on which the Democratic party depends are just as un-American as "the Communist dictatorship in Moscow or the erstwhile Fascist dictatorship in Germany and Italy," Chairman Carroll Reece of the Republican National Committee said today.

Committee headquarters made public a letter sent by Reece to 16,500 party officials throughout the country, in which he delivered one of his most violent attacks to date on the Democratic administration. Among other things he charged that:

1. President Truman went back on his word, in effect, when he called for a special session of Congress without first advising Republican leaders of his decision in ample time for full discussion;

2. The Democratic party has ceased to exist as a party, being a conglomeration of warring factions whose sole aim is to remain in power;

3. The "Solid South" no longer believes in the Administration but is chained to it by tradition;

4. Due to pressure from reds, pinks and fellow travelers, the President gave priority to the need for domestic controls in announcing his program for Congress.

Condemns Price Control.

Reece viewed with horror the possibility of resuscitating price controls, asserting the late Office of Price Administration and "other totalitarian devices" helped to cause present high prices.

Since Reece's views are regarded as reflecting the feelings of Republican congressional leaders generally, his strong condemnation of consumer price control probably foreshadows defeat for any attempt in the special session to recreate the OPA, in the opinion of political observers.

On the subject of political machines, he stressed that the President is a dues-paying member of the Kansas City Pendergast organization, and went on:

"The methods of the foreign dictators are more direct. They do not bother about allowing anyone to vote, whereas the machine bosses of the Democratic municipal strongholds allow citizens to go through the motions of exercising the right of franchise—the most basic right of free men or women anywhere—but they count the votes or fail to count them to suit themselves. So far as the individual is concerned, one system is about as bad as the other."

The Democratic Administration must take the blame for the high cost of living, his letter continued, because it resisted Republican efforts to cut the costs of Government, on the one hand, and to slash taxes on the other. The Administration, he said, has lived by improvisation, on a succession of emergencies and so-called crises.

"It was never at a loss for a crisis," said Reece. "If a real one did not exist, it could always pull a synthetic one out of the hat. The Administration may also create a crisis either by blundering or design. Many Americans feel that Mr. Truman's current soap opera performance is merely another example of that technique."

He acknowledged that Truman was within his constitutional rights in summoning a session of Congress without obtaining the advance approval of Republican congressional leaders.

"He also would be within his constitutional rights," Reece said, "if he should elect to stand on his head on the White House lawn every day at noon. And in view of some of the performances given by his administration, the country would not be too surprised if he should do so."

WORLD'S LARGEST LAND PLANE READY FOR TAXI TEST RUNS

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 1 (AP)—The world's largest land-based aircraft, Consolidated Vultee's six-engined XC-99, moved yesterday under its own power for the first time.

The double-decked XC-99 will be able to carry 400 troops, or 335 litter patients, or 100,000 pounds of cargo in its 182½-foot long fuselage. Wingspan is 230 feet. Range with a reduced payload is 8000 miles.

BOY, 6, DASHING TO HELP HIS MOTHER, IS KILLED BY TRUCK

CHICAGO, Nov. 1 (UP)—Tommy Tennant, 6 years old, always carried bundles for his mother. Walking home from school, he saw his mother on the other side of the street, her arms filled with packages from a shopping tour.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1 (AP) — A purse snatcher fled last night with $3000 after grabbing the handbag of a widow who told police she had carried the money with her since May. Mrs. Mary Dirnbeck, 66 years old, told police the theft occurred as she was walking home from a department store. The money represented proceeds from a mortgage.

Edgar Hoover Said to Oppose Outlawing Reds

By DORIS FLEESON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—THE critical phase of the House Un-American Activities Committee's work starts now with the hunt for practical legislative solutions for the American Communist threat—solutions that will not damage civil liberties.

Two bills are before the committee to outlaw the Communist party, an obvious and seemingly simple device much favored by amateurs. This technique, however, is privately but very firmly opposed by the master manhunter, J. Edgar Hoover. Hoover says feelingly to friends that it would make the FBI's work ten times as hard by driving the party underground. Communists, he thinks, are hard enough to find when it's legal to be one.

As policy is the Attorney General's province, Hoover ducked one committee effort to get his views. It is hardly to be supposed, however, that the FBI boss, the greatest legend of them all, to whom Congress never says no, will not be a factor in the committee's deliberations.

The President's committee on civil rights has offered another solution: systematic registration procedures for all groups which attempt to influence public opinion. Some wise politicoes think it would be smart of the highly controversial House committee to adopt this recommendation of the impeccable Charles E. Wilson of General Electric and his colleagues who did the excellent civil-rights job for the President.

Middle Way Hard to Find.

In what was for them an oddly lethargic session the committee finally ended, by adjournment, some of the flashiest brawling in the long history of Congressional investigations. Hollywood has "had it."

Unlike the equally sensational Hughes hearings which broke up in an immense clatter of Klieg lights, impromptu press conferences, back-slapping and carnival hi jinks, the Un-American committee's halt found its participants in sober, thoughtful mood. Except for a few extremists at each end, the gallery of press, lawyers, and interested bystanders seemed to realize that here were delicate issues that had been brutally manhandled and that it is going to be difficult to find the middle way.

Most capitol veterans who have watched the stormy committee from its horrid beginnings under Martin Dies found room for gratitude in present improvements in committee procedure. Dies was genuinely cavalier; he summoned witnesses to his Texas farm for examination and wrote official reports which the rest of the committee saw for the first time in the newspapers. These later hearings were importantly staged with every news facility present so that Americans can see and judge for themselves between accused and accuser. The committee staff, except the chief inquisitor, Stripling, is now drawn exclusively from the trained, responsible FBI forces.

As To the Committee.

The principal trouble with the committee is that it lacks men of stature. With the exception of Karl Mundt, now absorbed in foreign policy, there is no member of it who has broad information, a large experience, intellectual interests, a social conscience tested by time.

Contrary to the Communist yelps, there are such men in Congress. But they prefer the great permanent committees where they can help their constituents, advance causes, wield great power within the House itself. Being human, they also prefer to duck a committee where the mudslinging is a two-way street.

Nobody has yet got anything but a debatable reputation out of service on un-American activities.

FUGITIVE WILLING TO RETURN TO ALABAMA, SEEK LENIENCY

DOYLESTOWN, Pa., Nov. 1 (UP)—James R. Collins, 36 years old, the Alabama prison fugitive who became a successful and respected citizen in Pennsylvania, was willing today to face the music in his native state.

Collins told two brothers, Otis, 45, and Willo, 29, that he was ready to return to Alabama "if there is a chance of leniency." The brothers made a hurried trip from Mobile, Ala., to join him here.

"I'd rather have it that way," said Collins, who was sentenced to a life term at the age of 16 for serving as the lookout in a holdup in which a bank president was killed.

"If I remain here in Bucks county as a result of refusing to be extradited, it would be almost the same as it was before," he said. "I want to be cleared of this entirely."

PASSENGER ROBS CAB DRIVER OF $28, USES BUS TO ESCAPE

John Bronakowski, a driver for the Ace Cab Co., 609 North Taylor avenue, reported he was robbed of $28 last night by a passenger who entered his cab in the 2500 block of Marcus avenue and directed him to drive to Newstead and St. Louis avenues.

Police said Bronakowski told them the man took the money when they reached the 2300 block of St. Louis avenue, then ordered him to drive east on St. Louis. At Twenty-second street, he left the cab and stepped into a St. Louis avenue bus headed in the same direction.

Bronakowski told officers he followed the bus but lost it in traffic as it approached Broadway while he was trying to find a policeman.

DE VALERA CALLS ELECTION, STAKES OFFICE ON RESULT

DUBLIN, Nov. 1 (AP)—Prime Minister Eamon De Valera announced last night that he was staking his office on the outcome of a general election to be held early next year.

De Valera, prime minister since 1937 when the Dail (parliament) announced Eire's sovereignty and independence in a new constitution, called for new general elections as the result of the defeat suffered by his Fianna Fail party at the hands of the new Republican party in two out of three by-elections Thursday.

The Government scraped through in County Waterford, where John Ormonde, the Fianna Fail candidate, won by 15,318 votes to 12,556.

In County Dublin, one of the most important constituencies, the Fianna Fail met a decisive defeat when its general secretary, T. L. Mullins, was pitted against Sean McBride, leader of the Republican party, and McBride won, 29,629 to 20,197.

P. Kinane, candidate of the Republicans, also won a narrow victory in Tipperary over Sean Hayes of the Fianna Fail, 23,265 to 21,847.

The Republican party founded only two years ago, began to gain strength in the last six months on a program of price control and its claims to have a plan for full employment. In the by-elections it not only beat De Valera's candidates, but also cut sharply into the votes of the Fine Gael, heretofore the leading opposition party. De Valera's recent political difficulties have been attributed to rising inflation and industrial unrest.

McBride, the party founder, is a lawyer. His father was Maj. John McBride, who was executed in Dublin after the Easter (1916) rebellion against the British.

In the last general election in May 1944 the Fianna Fail won 76 of the 138 seats in the Dail. Fine Gael (United Ireland party) took second place with 30 seats. The remaining 32 were divided four ways.

willing to seek a compromise with Russia over differences on the future of a partitioned Holy Land. The Russians want any partition enforcement measures to be placed under the jurisdiction on the veto-powered Security Council, while the United States insists on the General Assembly retaining control.

(The United Press said reports were circulating in the U. N. that Britain would flatly reject the American plan, which would leave the British in charge in Palestine during the transition period. Unofficially, British spokesmen in the U. N. and in London indicated rejection of the proposal on the ground that Britain has decided not to assume sole responsibility, or a major share of responsibility, for ushering Palestine to independence.)

The General Assembly at today's session overrode a Russia protest and voted, 46 to 6, with Siam abstaining, to approve the trusteeship agreement for the mandated territory of Nauru submitted jointly by Australia, New Zealand and Britain. Russia contended that the Nauru agreement was in contradiction with the U.N. Charter provision that "states directly concerned" be consulted.

The delegates also approved, 39 to 5, over Soviet objections, Austria's application for membership in the international civil aviation organization. The Assembly yesterday voted to admit Italy to the aviation body.

Other U.N. developments yesterday:

Russia lost in the Security Council its demand that Dutch troops withdraw to positions they held in the East Indies last July and that the Indonesian republic be given authority to keep order in the areas restored to it. The council also turned down an Australian resolution which had been amended by Russia, to direct each of the conflicting forces to pull back about 25 kilometers (about 15 miles).

The Assembly voted, 43 to 0, for a resolution inviting the U.N. Economic and Social Council to study the "factors" to be considered in setting up an economic commission for the Middle East.

HOWARD HUGHES FLYING BOAT TO BE GIVEN WATER TRYOUTS

LONG BEACH, Calif., Nov. 1 (AP) — Howard Hughes's 200-ton flying boat, the largest plane in the world, was scheduled to be hauled from its docks early today in preparation for water tryouts in the harbor tomorrow. It will probably be next spring before the $23,000,000 craft is given its first test in the air.

Hughes announced that in taxi tests around the harbor the plane may be subjected to speeds up to 80 miles an hour to determine air-flow and water characteristics.

The flying boat, made almost entirely of wood, has a wingspread of 320 feet.

Agreement Allowing Ex-Enemy to Keep, Scrap Ships Is Part of New Amity Accord.

LONDON, Nov. 1 (UP)—Britain will allow Italy to keep—and scrap—the British share of the Italian battle fleet, as a token that "traditional friendship" between the two countries has been renewed. It thus followed the lead of the United States, which renounced its claim to a share of the fleet some time ago.

The Foreign Office announced last night that warships awarded to Britain under the peace treaty would be left in Italian hands "to be dealt with in accordance with Article 2-B of the naval protocol which provides for certain categories of vessels to be scrapped and sunk." The names of the ships allocated to Britain were never announced, but it was believed they included the battleship Vittorio Veneto.

Other results of the conversations between Sforza and Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin included:

An agreement to abolish visas for travel between the two countries "in the immediate future," indicating that the British bar on foregin exchange for traveling purposes might be lifted soon.

Official establishment of the British-Italian Standing Economic Committee—an organization which had previously existed only on paper.

Creation of a British-Italian cultural convention to provide for exchange students, teachers and research workers.

The Foreign Office communique said that Sforza's visit, the first official appearance of an Italian cabinet minister here since the war—"marked a new stage in the development of relations between Italy and the United Kingdom. . . . The visit served to emphasize and strengthen the renewed bonds of traditional friendship between the two countries."

from his office. His wife had been stabbed in the neck and beaten in the face.

Detectives still had not discarded a theory that Mrs. Merrifield was killed as result of a "feud" among members of one of her many fashionable clubs. However, officers said the chief suspect, the middle-aged "woman in black," did not "exactly resemble a club woman" from descriptions provided by three persons.

The "woman in black" was seen hurrying from the Merrifeld home late Thursday afternoon by a neighbor. Later, a woman answering her description was seen by Dale C. Emmert on a corner two blocks away. He said she was trying "to hitch a ride." She was black haired, wore a black coat and hat and carried a black handbag. Emmert said she wore "heavy makeup."

Quinn said officers were certain the killing was committed by a woman. Police found "pinkish" fingerprints on a telephone directory nearby and a strand of long black hair was clutched in Mrs. Merrifield's hand.

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, Nov. 1 (AP)—A deep snow blanket near the top of Mount Tamgas, on Annette island, today hampered searchers seeking to recover bodies of 18 persons killed when a Pan American World Airways plane plowed into the peak last Sunday.

Eight Coast Guardsmen, led by Lt. Comdr. F. S. Schrieber, reached the wreckage late yesterday and messaged they had found four bodies, and that there were "no survivors." The four-motored plane apparently had partly burned and exploded, scattering wreckage far and wide. Search planes found the spot earlier yesterday.

A possible cause of the crash was advanced by William L. Baker, editor of the Ketchikan Chronicle, who said he believed the 3610-foot elevation listed for the peak on charts was incorrect. Baker voiced his theory after accompanying search planes on their flights around Mount Tamgas.

Baker said the altimeter of a Coast Guard plane in which he was flying showed 3400 feet at the level of the wreckage and that the summit loomed several hundred feet above, apparently at 4000 or 4100 feet. The crash scene was about six miles from the Annette air field.

Several pilots also had reported that the Annette island airport radio beam was wavering Sunday afternoon at the time of the crash, he said. Neither Civil Aeronautics Administration officials nor Coast Guard officers would comment.

The plane, flown by Capt. Alf N. Monsen, veteran pilot, found extreme air turbulence over Annette, his last message said, and planned to fly on to Juneau.

Monsen, however, had flown for years in the Alaska service and probably knew the southeastern Alaska terrain well, other flyers said.

Last night, six CAA men and 11 Army Air Force mountaineers landed on Upper Tamgas Lake, on the mountain's slopes. Other inspectors were to arrive there this morning and Pan American had a crew of 40, headed by Capt. G. F. Maxwell, also set to climb the peak.

A Pan American spokesman said the bodies would be brought down the mountain, either to the lake, or to the ocean shore where the Coast Guard cutter Citrus would bring them here. They could be flown from the lake in seaplanes.

SCHOOL PRINCIPAL HELD FOR HALLOWEEN SHOOTING

CANTON, O., Nov. 1 (UP) — Virgil Summers, 40 years old, Canal Fulton (O.) grade school principal, today was held in jail here on open charges after he fired a shotgun blast into a Halloween group of high school boys and injured three of them last night.

The boys were attempting to upset the principal's outhouse as a Halloween prank. Summers heard them and, according to police, fired in the general direction of the group, hitting three of the youths in the legs. Those injured were Merle Gordon, 18; Raymond Brankhamp, 17, and Terry Brenkhamp, 19.

Summers said he called to the boys to stop when he discovered them in his back yard. When they fled he said he shot in their direction, aiming into the air. The shots, however, went low.

RADIOMAN FALLS FROM PLANE

HONOLULU, Nov. 1 (UP)—The Navy today revealed the death of an enlisted aviation radioman who was apparently thrown out of a Navy dive bomber into the ocean during practice maneuvers. The man's name was withheld. The body was not recovered.

The pilot, Ens. Lowell H. Smith, Long Beach, Calif., said the last he heard from his crewman was when he called out the altitude during a simulated bombing attack on the cruisers St. Paul, Tucson and Toledo.

DENIES UAW WILL SIGN AFFIDAVITS FOR LABOR BOARD

Addes himself had reported that a majority of the policy-making executive board favored signing affidavits.

"Thomas is all wet," the spokesman said.

The conflicting announcements further clouded a fight of newspaper releases in which Reuther and his left-wing opponents have hurled charges at each other in a build-up to the convention.

Questioned about the executive board vote at his home, Thomas said the board may have cast a majority vote to sign but asserted "that's not the proper interpretation."

"I voted no and I'm not going to sign," he said, and intimated others on the board would join him in refusal.

On the basis of Reuther's earlier announcement, a majority vote to sign for the big union had been viewed as a significant victory for the union leader in his fight to retain office. The board is divided 14 to eight against him.

The Reuther spokesman said that in effect Thomas was defying the will of the executive board. He said Addes gave Reuther a letter yesterday advising him of the majority vote and explained that a majority board vote is binding upon all members.

Reuther notified the NLRB of the decision yesterday with Addes's approval in order to protect the UAW in cases pending before the Government agency, the spokesman said.

HUNDREDS FILE WITH LABOR BOARD

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board today began winnowing through hundreds of last-minute union compliances with the non-Communist provision of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Just under the wire was the big CIO United Auto Workers' Union, whose executive board reversed a previous stand and informed the NLRB the necessary papers would be filed as soon as possible.

Both stood pat, past last midnight's deadline, on their refusal to file the non-Communist pledges and financial statements required by the law. This means the 350,000 UMW members and the 800,000 steel workers are barred from services of the NLRB.

The steel workers, however, stepped in at the eleventh hour with a challenge expected to lay the groundwork for a court test of the board's power to make the non-Communist rule stick.

The UAW, despite its compliance, had taken a similar legal step.

Specifically, the steel workers questioned the board's authority to toss out 22 already-pending cases involving union petitions for collective bargaining rights.

The union filed with the board a petition asserting dismissal of these cases would be "illegal, invalid, based on an improper construction of the National Labor Relations Act and the powers and duties thereunder, and unconstitutional."

Eugene Cotton, assistant counsel of the union, told reporters that "at some stage" of the challenge the steel workers would contest the non-Communist and financial information requirements.

That was after the AFL's two major officers had taken steps to comply in conformance with AFL convention action in San Francisco. Secretary-Treasurer George Meany submitted his affidavit and sent word to the board that AFL President William Green's affidavit would be "along in a few days."

An official of the NLRB said it might take weeks to clear up the paper work caused by the rush of unions to meet the deadline. On Oct. 14 the board had 3449 cases pending. Those brought by unions which have failed to comply with the two key provisions of the act are subject to dismissal.

Unions which have not yet filed the necessary papers, but which signified before the midnight deadline that they will comply, will be given what the NLRB terms a "reasonable time" to meet the requirements.

UE Board Not Changing Policy of Avoiding NLRB.

No change has been indicated in the policy adopted by the general executive board of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers' Union of declining to submit any future issues to the NLRB, William Sentner, a Communist and president of District 8 of the union, said today. The policy was indorsed by the locals in District 8.

Ousted CIO Officer Says Members Told Him Not to Sign.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 1 (AP)—James L. Daugherty yesterday attributed his dismissal from the executive board of the CIO-Utility Workers' Union to his insistence on following the wishes of his union members and the policy of CIO President Philip Murray.

The board in Washington Thursday ousted him for failing to sign a non-Communist affidavit under provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Daugherty, California regional director of the union since 1940, said he was no Communist and that he had notified the board he had put the question of whether he should sign the affidavit up to his West Coast members. The locals instructed him not to sign, he said. Before he could act further, he said, the board ousted him.

DEWEY FOR 'KEEPING AHEAD' OF PROBLEMS

'I Don't Believe in Government by Crisis,' He Declares.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey said last night "I do not believe in government by crisis" and added "only bunglers and incompetents fail to see the crisis coming and to meet it before it becomes one."

"I believe in knowing the problem ahead of time, finding out exactly what has to be done and then getting it done," he said. "I believe in working out problems with the duly elected representatives of the people in the free give-and-take of conference, and giving the right answers on the basis of the best technical advice there is after the fullest discussion among those charged with responsibility."

The Governor, speaking at a testimonial dinner given by the Westchester county Republican committee to its chairman, Livingston Platt, devoted his address to an account of G.O.P. stewardship of state affairs in the last five years.

The party, he said, has built a "monumental record of progress in this state" in the period.

YELLOW URGED FOR HUNTERS' GARB AS EASILY MADE OUT

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 11 (UP) — The American Optometric Association recommended today that hunters replace their traditional red coats and hats with yellow-orange garments.

"The Army and Navy have found that yellow is the most easily distinguishable color from a distance," the association reported.

BOY KILLS FRIEND'S MOTHER

MARDELA, Md., Nov. 1 (AP)—The gun a 14-year-old school boy took out Halloween to scare spooks went off accidentally and killed his playmate's mother, Dr. Charles T. Fisher, acting Wicomico county medical examiner, reported last night.

Mrs. John Brewer, 39 years old, was taken to Peninsula General Hospital with a gunshot wound in the forehead and died three hours later, Dr. Fisher reported. State Trooper J. P. Monoghan said Mrs. Brewer was shot when Robert Williams, 14, waived a .22 caliber rifle and said, "This is what I'm going to scare the spooks with."

80 FAMILIES ORDERED OUT OF 2 PROJECTS

Wages Too High for Low-Income Rental—220 Other Groups to Get Notice.

Eighty families residing in Clinton Peabody Terrace and Carr Square Village, mass housing projects operated by the St. Louis Housing Authority, have been notified they must move to make room for low-income families.

Sherman E. Butler, manager of the projects, said that 220 other families have been notified that higher incomes have made them ineligible for the project and to expect six-month notices to move. There are 657 families at the Peabody project at Grattan street and Chouteau avenue, and 658 at the Carr Square project for Negroes at Fifteenth and Carr streets.

The projects were built to provide suitable housing for low income groups but in wartime regulations on income eligibility were relaxed to permit war workers with higher incomes to live at the projects.

The Federal Public Housing Authority last June issued a directive against continuing to rent to families in higher income brackets. A family may now be admitted if it has an income no higher than $1800 a year and may stay until its income passes $2500. Rental rates vary from $11 to $35 a month. Butler said there is a waiting list of several hundred families whose incomes fall below the maxima set for the project.

LAST OF KENTUCKY'S WHISKY FIRMS CLOSES FOR 60 DAYS

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 1 (AP)—The last of Kentucky's 53 distilleries closed at midnight last night in compliance with the request of the National Citizens' Food Committee.

Heaven Hill Distilleries, Inc., Bardstown, was informed yesterday that Heaven Hill Corp., Los Angeles, would withdraw its objections to a shutdown. The California firm previously had obtained a court order here, directing the Bardstown company to fulfill its contract for supplying 179 barrels of whisky daily.

John K. Skaggs Jr., attorney for the Bardstown firm, said the company had been informed by Oliver I. Jacobson, president of the California company, that the distributors would order their lawyers to move to dismiss the action and set aside the ruling. Court action was taken after the California firm threatened to sue for damages if the distillery closed, Skaggs said.

Distilleries of the nation closed at midnight, Oct. 25, for a 60-day period at the request of the Citizens' Food Committee to save grain for shipment to Europe.

One Killed, 4 Hurt as Dam Breaks.

LISBON, Nov. 1 (AP)—One man was killed and four injured today when the Arcos de Valdevez dam burst, sending a cascade of water from 2400-foot high cliffs and submerging the village of Pontihota which lay below.

NEW K. C. GRAND JURY WILL BE IMPANELED

Results of Election Inquiry by FBI Agents Will Be Considered.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 1—A new special federal grand jury will be impaneled Nov. 12 to continue an investigation of vote frauds in the 1946 primary here and the blowing of the Jackson County Courthouse safe the night of May 27-28, in accordance with an order issued yesterday by United States District Judge Albert A. Ridge.

In his order, Judge Ridge specified that the jurors be selected from a panel of 50 residents of the western Missouri district, all living outside of Jackson county. The grand jury, the second special grand jury to be called, will continue an investigation conducted by a special grand jury which was impaneled last July 8 and discharged Aug. 29.

The first grand jury returned five vote fraud conspiracy indictments, involving groups of politicians and primary day election workers in precincts in the First and Second wards. It voted also two perjury indictments and an indictment alleging tampering with a member of the jury.

Evidence to be considered by the new grand jury, it was learned, includes the results of investigations by special agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in more than 25 precincts representing several wards, some of them traditionally deliverable machine bailiwicks. It will be presented to the jury by Richard K. Phelps, special assistant attorney general, who was appointed by Attorney General Tom C. Clark to direct the investigations.

THREE ROBBERS GET $60,000 IN LOOT AT HALLOWEEN PARTY

PASSAIC, N.J., Nov. 1 (AP) — Three armed robbers interrupted a Halloween television party in a home here last night and made off with an estimated $60,000 in cash, jewelry, fur coats and silverware.

While one covered Mr. and Mrs. David Reisfeld and their guests with his pistol, the others went through the house, collecting a jeweled ring valued at $30,000 by Mrs. Reisfeld, five fur coats, silverware and more than $800 in cash.

During the robbery, the man covering the five guests asked Mrs. Reisfeld to mix him a drink. She did, and also gave him some cigarettes when he asked for them.

STOCK TRADE LIGHTEST SINCE MAY, IRREGULAR

Selective Bidding Props Individual Issues—Hope for Technical Comeback.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (AP) — Individual stocks today stepped into November with modest advances while many market leaders failed to get anywhere in particular.

Slowdowns were frequent from the opening on. Variations of fractions either way ruled near the close with a number of pivotals unchanged. Turnover for the two hours was 360,000 shares, a minimum since last May.

Bidding was attributed to further hopes for a technical rebound after the recent reaction. There also was short covering by professionals who planned to extend the weekend through Tuesday's election day recess. Accounts again were trimmed by those who felt that the list had sounded a bearish note in refusing to respond to good corporate news such as dividends and earnings. Others stood aloof on the idea that the tax situation was cloudy. A boost in brokerage commissions, effective Monday, elicited scant cheering.. The elimination of credit controls, beginning at midnight, was viewed with restricted optimism.

Bethlehem Steel still was the star performer, hitting a 1947 top at 100 in reflection of the splitup proposal. Chrysler added a modest plus mark in the wake of the lifted disbursement. Eastern Air Lines, on the other hand, dipped to its lowest level of the year following an omitted dividend and statement showing a net loss for the September quarter. Improved most of the time were United States Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Graham-Paige, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, Boeing, American Smelting, Phelps Dodge, du Pont, J. C. Penney, Johns-Manville, Owens-Illinois, Central Aguirre Sugar, Standard Oil (New Jersey) and Texas Co.

INDUSTRY AND TRADE IN ST. LOUIS LAST WEEK

"Continued unseasonable weather here last week held retail sales below the volume of the previous week and the corresponding week a year ago," Dun & Bradstreet reports in weekly tabloid trade review of St. Louis. "The weather factor diminished consumer interest in clothing, but purveyors of foodstuffs reported a normal volume devoid of strong resistance to high prices.

"Wholesale prices continued to spiral upward during the early part of the week but were halted abruptly by announcement of a special session of Congress to consider measures for dealing with inflation. Prices of numerous commodities dipped. Meat prices, showing also the effect of seasonal liquidation, fell. Wholesalers of women's wear reported volume continued to be curtailed by unusually warm weather. Women's wear retailers, these wholesalers report, are concentrating purchases on dresses which retail for $10. The $16 dress is next in demand, but beyond that price the average retailer's interest diminishes sharply.

Southwestern Bell Income Off.

Southwestern Bell reported third quarter net income of $1,680,960 compared with $2,913,919 year ago, a drop of 37 per cent. The decline was in face of a higher level of revenues resulting from the sustained demand for service, it was stated. "The revenue betterment, however, only partly compensated for greater costs of operation which reflect to large extent wage increases granted earlier this year, record employment and higher prices of material and supplies."

Operating revenues of $49,485,992 in the three months ending September 30, were $3,220,363, or 7 per cent, above those in the like period of 1946. In contrast, operating expenses went up $5,458,672, to $40,917,575, which was a rise of 15 per cent over the third quarter of 1946.

Clinton Industries Report.

Clinton Industries, Inc., reported net income for nine months ended Sept. 30 of $3,029,041, equivalent to $4.06 a share, on 745,215 shares outstanding. Profit and income before federal taxes was $4,866,956.

McDonnell Aircraft Report.

McDonnell Aircraft Corp. reported for the fiscal year ended June 30, net income of $540,870 compared with loss of $226,134 in preceding year. Sales for the year just ended amounted to $11,172,427 as against $6,562,001 in the preceding year. Backlog as of June 30 amounted to $36,946,114.

COTTON OFF 15C TO 70C

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (AP)—Cotton futures, after a steady opening, turned easy today. The diminished volume of trade price fixing and some hedging contributed to the sell off. Trading was quiet and dealers generally were inclined to adopt sideline positions, pending developments at Washington in connection with rising living costs and European aid. Advices from the south indicated that there was a strong spot demand with a firming dendency.

Eastern Air Lines Omits Dividend.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (AP)—Eastern Air Lines today announced the semi-annual dividend of 25 cents a share usually paid in December will be omitted.

Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, president, said this action was taken "in view of the loss for the third quarter, plus the ever constant demand for increased wages, the rising costs of materials and uncertainties of general business conditions in the near future."

"Judgment dictates," he said, "the passing of the dividend at this time rather than paying it out of capital with borrowed funds. It is to the best interests of the stockholders under present conditions not only to maintain the current cash position but to improve it."

Stock Trading to Cost More.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (AP)—The membership of the New York Stock Exchange has approved increased commission rates, the exchange announced.

The new schedule of charges which customers will pay for buying and selling securities will go into effect Nov. 3.

Governors of the exchange already had approved the boost in rates.

The new rates, in the form of an amendment to the constitution of the exchange, provide for an over-all advance in commission revenue of about 20 per cent.

WHEAT RULES HIGHER ON FEARS FOR CROP

CHICAGO, Nov. 1 (AP)—Although grains maintained a steady undertone on the Board of Trade today, initial gains extending to several cents in wheat were reduced by the close. Corn and oats followed the action of wheat in a slow weekend trade.

The bread cereal was higher initially on apprehension concerning the 1948 winter wheat crop. Later in the session trade reports from Minneapolis said cash wheat in that market was easy with demand slow. As a result, some selling entered the wheat pit here.

Wheat closed ¼ to 1 cent higher, December $2.95½; corn was ¼ to 1 cent higher, December $2.27½@¾, and oats were ¼c lower to ¼c higher, December $1.12⅝@¼.

STEVENSON, JOAN L.—In loving memory of our darling daughter, who died Nov. 1, 1946:

I know not what the future hath
Of marvel or surprise,
Assured alone that life and death
His mercy underlies.
I know not where His islands lift
Their fronded palms in air;
I only know I cannot drift
Beyond His love and care.

At Possum Trot Farm

Life in the Kitchen When Day Is Done

By Leonard Hall

AT 6 o'clock of an evening the kitchen becomes the center of interest at Possum Trot—sometimes, I am sure, to Mama's dismay and especially after a long day at making apple butter. When I come in at about that time from doing the chores, I'm certain to find her the center of interest and attention; her every move followed expectantly by four pairs of devoted eyes. Red Mike, the Irish setter, is a perfect gentleman but is likely to be the most vociferous member of the family; he comes as close to talking as any dog we've known. Chipper, the cocker, as black as any ink-spot and always full of burrs from her forays into the field, lies silently under the kitchen table; her talking is done with her liquid brown eyes. Veronica, the gray cat, grows bigger by the month and more and more taciturn as time goes on. I think she has never quite accepted the new Possum Trot farm as her real home, which is a way cats have when you move them from one place to another. She spends her days in the woods, but along about dusk you'll find her perched outside the kitchen window, waiting for someone to let her in for supper.

FINALLY THERE is Tiny Tim—a very special sort of cat. There's more affection in him than you'll find in most of his kind, not to mention a sense of humor which has been evident ever since the day we definitely determined his name should be Tim instead of Lillian Gish. He was a waif, in those days, but a spunky little fellow who'd stand up for his rights against any dog or a cat four times his size. Now he is big and fat and prosperous, with a spotless white vest like an old-time banker's waistcoat. Somehow this summer he must have tangled with one of the horses or cattle, for his head was injured and his sense of balance entirely destroyed. We were afraid we'd lost a fine cat, but finally he came around and is now almost as good as new.

HE STILL carries his head on one side, however, and for some reason this gives him an appealing quality which is quite impossible to resist. He's a very talkative cat and lets us know exactly when it's time to get up in the morning by coming to the front door and demanding to be let in. There's nothing he enjoys more than going with us for long walks through the fields, complaining bitterly all the time, yet refusing entirely to let us pick him up and carry him. The one bit of sadness in Tiny Tim's life is that Chipper refuses to frolic with him. Some folks, I guess, would say we spoil our animals by giving them too much attention; yet they repay us with affection and companionship.

AS A MATTER OF FACT, there are two of our favorites which almost suffer from lack of attention—and these are Daisy and Ribbon, the saddle mares. Never since we've come here have we been able to find time to ride as much as we'd like; always there is one more job to be done. But once a week or so we try to saddle up and ride out to check the cattle or perhaps move them from one field to another or make sure they have plenty of salt and minerals. That job generally takes an hour or so, after which we ride up through the east fields to the foot of Buford Mountain, where a magnificent view of the valley stretches out before us.

ON A FEW OCCASIONS we've headed up the mountain itself, but the old roads are so washed and overgrown with scrub oak that it isn't easy going. There was a time, in the days of the big timber, that you could ride a horse almost anywhere through the woods in the Missouri Ozarks. Now over-cutting of the timber, overgrazing and burning have covered the hills with a tangle of scrub which is almost impossible to force one's way through.

Well, we saw our first flock of geese heading south this morning. All day the wind blew out of the east and tonight there's lightning playing around the horizon. Perhaps we'll win our gamble for a bumper food crop next year. Here's hoping.

Gutter Leaves

By Christopher Billopp

LEAVES that fall into the gutter clog the gutter and lead to no end of trouble. They should be removed.

The gutter can be reached in two ways. Either you may climb a ladder up to it, or climb out of a second-story window and crawl down the roof to it. Both involve the imminent danger of falling and getting hurt.

Womenfolk anticipate trouble. They wish you wouldn't try it. But, on the other hand, they, too, would like to have the leaves out of the gutter. And they are not very helpful in suggesting who will remove the leaves if you don't.

AT LEAST they can warn you to be careful. They can recall gruesome incidents of people just about your age who climbed up on things and fell off and damaged a leg or an arm or a back. They wouldn't have you crippled for anything.

Their warnings are very effective. So much so that they make you tremble. Now it is a question whether trembling, in addition to climbing and crawling for leaves which are just beyond your reach, is conducive to your greater safety. It is a question, therefore, whether the good women would not have done better to refrain from recalling gruesome incidents.

POSSIBLY it would have been better had they remarked that there is no real danger. Perhaps it would have been more helpful had they emphasized the thrill that comes to circus acrobats, steeplejacks and firemen.

Certainly anything would be better than to get you into a state in which, while you are in a precarious position, you experience all the symptoms commonly associated with palsy.

It is too bad that when the leaves float down they have to float into gutters. It is even worse that, if you go down, you know you won't float at all.

WHERE 18 PERISHED IN ALASKAN AIR CRASH

Halloween Festivities

Community singing, games and a magic show kept this throng of youngsters entertained at St. Michael's School, 2501 North Eleventh street, scene of one of nine free Halloween parties held last night under sponsorship of the Juvenile Division of the Police Department and the International Brotherhood of Magicians. Bad weather curtailed outside activity, resulting in a quiet Halloween observance.

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:

I AM a man age 29 very much in love with a girl several years younger. I had to stop my education and start to work before I had quite finished high school, due to the death of my father and mother having two younger children on her hands. This girl I love has had a college education and holds down a very responsible position. I am pretty sure she she makes a good deal more money than I do. Several months ago she agreed to marry me. But the more I think the matter over the more it seems to me our marriage would not work out. My fiancee seems to have adopted a superior attitude toward me, tries to run my affairs and dictate to me at every turn. She is sweet and pretty but I am wondering if perhaps her education hasn't gone to her head. I have worked a good many years now, I have been able to take my place in business, have had some promotions, don't like to feel condescended to and belittled. Do you think this engagement should be broken?

IN DOUBT.

It is quite possible that you are suddenly feeling self-conscious and worrying about a problem which exists only in your own mind. If your fiancee has a sense of proportion she will not allow her college education to give her the swelled head. She would realize she was fortunate enough to have enjoyed that advantage because her parents could afford to give it to her, whereas you did not because yours were less comfortably situated. Her native intelligence may be no greater than your own. In fact no one with common sense high hats anyone. That is childish. If you truly love this girl have the matter out with her. Perhaps she doesn't realize how you feel about the situation. If after your talk you are convinced these feelings aren't all in your own mind, that she really does feel superior and continues to act it, seems apologetic for you and your lack of education, you will do well to think very seriously before taking her as a life partner.

Dear Martha Carr:

WE ARE two girls ages 17 and 18, who are puzzled about the boys we go with. They never will come to our homes for us when we have a date with them. They always expect us to meet them somewhere else and start out from there. They are nice boys and treat us with respect otherwise. This is their only fault. They are 21 years old, some of them a little older, and it seems to us they should know better. How can you suggest we get the idea across to them that we don't like this business of meeting here and there and they should call for us properly? We are planning a Hallowe'en Party, also hope to have one at Thanksgiving. Can you suggest some games for us?

MARIAN & DEL.

You are quite right in feeling these boys should come to the house for you, should meet your parents, and then go on to your date from there. Perhaps they have not been as well brought up as yourselves. Simply tell them next time they suggest you meet them on Grand and Olive instead of coming for you that you are sorry, but you can't agree to that kind of arrangement. Suggest at what time they can come by for you at your home. If they don't want to agree to this then they aren't the kinds of boys you want to associate with. Tell them sorry, but that is that, and find yourselves boys who know more about the proper way to behave. I have a leaflet for Thanksgiving party games which I'll be glad to mail you if you will send me a stamped, self-addressed enevelope.

IN ANSWER TO "Jinny P.": It is too bad you lost your nerve at the last minute. Since you seemed to like the boy naturally he is a little hurt that he was not invited with these others to your party. Perhaps, too, he feels anyone as popular as you seem to have become of late would have no time to give him if he did summon courage to ask for that date. Continue to be friendly when you see him, and perhaps when his cousin returns you can think up something between you which will better the present situation for you.

IN ANSWER TO "J.R.": There is usually a market for this kind of thing if you can just find it. Perhaps such magazines as "Hobbies" to be found at the Public Library will be helpful, as well as a look around the antique shops.

IN ANSWER TO "Dot": I have no patterns for favors of any kind. The department stores, the dime stores and the public Library may be able to help you.

IN ANSWER TO "M. J.": This is a matter you will have to take up with a patent lawyer.

Social Problems

A READER asks: "How should the reply be worded when the invitation reads: 'Blank College and Dean Smith request the pleasure, etc.' The invitation asks for a reply."

DEAR MRS. POST: Will you please tell me if I have committed a serious breach of etiquette? At a bridal shower last evening, a fruit salad and sandwiches were served. We were seated at the dining table. When we had finished eating, I noticed that everyone but I had left the salad's lettuce untouched. Was it wrong to eat the lettuce or was the choice optional?

DEAR MRS. POST: Is it polite, when a neighbor asks me to go driving with her in the afternoon, for her to stop at the house of a friend and leave me sitting in the car?

Answer: Either your friend should ask you to go driving on a day when she is not paying visits or she should explain when she invites you that she has to stop a few minutes to see Mrs. Invalid. Then if you go, you could take something to read while waiting in the car. Of course, if she stopped to see someone able to greet strangers, you should be asked to go inside, too.

DEAR MRS. POST: My husband and I will be celebrating our fifth wedding anniversary very soon. I would like very much to give him a wedding ring at this time. Would other people think this proper?

Answer: It seems to me that the propriety of this concerns no one but you two.

Tomorrow's Peace Plate

TWO-DAY menu planning that looks ahead to Monday's satisfying Peace Plate is part of tomorrow's eating suggestion from home economists of the Citizens Food Committee's Consumer Service Section. Roast stuffed shoulder of lamb—a meat cut in line with the food conservation program—has a vegetable stuffing that spares bread and contributes special flavor with food values.

Sharing the roasting pan and the meat's fine flavor are pan-roasted potatoes. Try a salad of diced canned pineapple and sliced raw cranberries tossed with broken-up lettuce leaves and your favorite salad dressing. For Sunday dessert, serve chocolate or vanilla ice cream.

ROAST SHOULDER OF LAMB WITH VEGETABLE STUFFING

One medium onion (diced), one-half cup celery (chopped), three tablespoons green pepper (chopped), three-fourths cup raw carrot (grated), two cups soft bread crumbs, one and one-fourth teaspoons salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one-half teaspoon paprika, one-fourth cup melted fat, four pounds shoulder of lamb (cut with "pocket" for stuffing).

Combine first 10 ingredients. Fill pocket of meat with stuffing. Fasten together with skewers or tie securely with cord. Brush with additional fat. Season with two teaspoons additional salt and one-fourth teaspoon pepper. Roast in moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit), allowing 45 minutes per pound. Serve six to eight, with leftovers.

PAN-ROASTED POTATOES:

Pare eight medium potatoes and boil 10 minutes. Arrange around roast in roasting pan and bake 40-60 minutes, or until tender, turning occasionally and basting with fat in pan. Plan so that the meat and potatoes are done at the same time.

FOOD CONSERVATION REMINDERS.

Don't throw away those green stems around the head of a cauliflower. Cook them in a little water until just tender (about 45 minutes). Chop, season, add butter or fortified margarine and serve. Delicious, thrifty.

Sell to your butcher all leftover fat you can't use in cooking. Drippings from skillet or roasting pan are good for use in hashed brown potatoes or for browning meat cakes, hash, etc.

My Day -o- By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.

AN advertisement in Fortune magazine this month attempts to bring home to people a fact which many of us had hoped the business and agricultural world would face sometime ago. This advertisement points out that we should send tractors and other farm machinery to Europe. They are asking for 12,000 heavy tractors and 14,000 light tractors with which to plow and cultivate their fields. By sending this machinery, we might possibly be able to cut our exports of wheat, according to this advertisement, to 55 per cent of the present amount and thereby not only help Europe to feed herself but curtail our rising price index.

OUR PEOPLE pay indirectly for this wheat we send to Europe. The Government buys it from the farmers, but the farmers and the rest of the people of the United States pay for it through their taxes. Temporarily, of course, the farmers feel better off. Therefore, they make greater demands for farm machinery, and cultivate more and more land so as to send more and more wheat out of the country.

The proposal to export more machinery rather than more wheat sounds like common sense to me. Machinery sent to Europe will enable them to produce for their own use and for export, so that they can begin to repay their debts and buy other things from us. Only in that way can we ever hope to recover what we have put into Europe.

This is a purely dollars-and-cents proposition. There are other things which cannot be measured in dollars and cents but which are of great importance to both Europe and ourselves. However, until economic recovery begins, there is little hope for a return to any of the other values which in the past have made western Europe a storehouse of cultural inspiration to the world.

MORE AND MORE housewives are writing to me about the value of "buyers' strikes," and the cost of living seems to be stirring many of them into real action. There is no question about it—if women stop buying certain things because prices are too high, those prices will come down.

Probably in every country in the world, a large amount of the money spent, at least on household expenses, is spent by women. In our own country a great many women have independent incomes, either earned or inherited, but even where they are dependent on their husband's incomes, the average outflow of money is largely in the hand of women. So they are an economic factor in the life of the nation.

I think it is well that they are beginning to realize their importance. And I hope that the women of modest means, as well as those who are better off, will feel a sense of responsibility, since the greatest turn-over of money is in the hands of those who have modest incomes.

Puffed Cheese Sandwiches

One and one-fourth cups grated sharp cheese (about one-third pound), one egg, three tablespoons top milk or cream, one-half teaspoon paprika, a little salt, if necessary, eight slices bread.

Beat the egg well. Add the cheese, cream and paprika. Beat well with a fork. Add salt if necessary. Toast the bread on one side only. Spread the untoasted side with the cheese mixture. Toast the sandwiches under the broiler until the cheese is puffed up and lightly browned. Serve the sandwiches at once.

Economical Menus for Tomorrow

By Meta Given

IN trying to keep our food needs within the limit of our food budget these days, there is danger of skimping on some vital essentials and sooner or later our health will be impaired. One class of foods which we may not get enough of are those supplying Vitamin C — the anti-scurvy vitamin. We need every day of our lives from 75 to 150 milligrams of this vitamin and this means a serving daily of citrus fruits or tomatoes, melons or strawberries and besides ordinary servings of such foods as cabbage, carrots, green pepper, broccoli, rutabagas and potatoes.

But the trouble is that besides the first four named foods we often eat the other foods cooked or served in such a way that most of this vitamin has been destroyed. Carrots and cabbage shredded soon lose vitamin C, so when they are used, shred immediately before they are to be served. Cook potatoes always in salt water.

Experiments show that from 16 to 19 per cent more vitamin C remains when they are cooked in salt water. The salt prevents the oxygen from destroying the vitamin. And potatoes raw are even a better source than the cooked ones and whole nations have been able to avoid scurvy when their people were generous eaters of potatoes. While a diet may not be inadequate enough to produce scurvy, yet there will be a lack of energy, pain in the joints, a poor complexion and the blood vessels will cease to be elastic and strong. Keeping up with a good supply of Vitamin C keeps our body young.

Low Cost Menus.

SUNDAY

DINNER: . . . Roast chicken with bread stuffing, baked sweet potatoes, creamed onions, buttered parsnips, mixed green salad, muffins, butter and jam, pumpkin custard pie.

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Are you perturbed about the state of the world today? Well, so was one of the officers of a midwestern trust company. He visited his reference library, and at the next meeting of the board, had the following quotations jotted down for the edification of the directors:

1. "There is scarcely anything around us but ruin and despair."
2. "Everything is tending toward a convulsion."
3. "Thank God, I shall be spared from seeing the consummation of ruin that is gathering about us."
4. "In industry, commerce, and agriculture, there is no hope whatever."
5. "Nothing can save the British Empire from shipwreck."

The directors felt better, however, when they heard who had expressed these lugubrious sentiments — and when: 1—William Pitt, in the 1790s; 2—Lord Gray in 1819; 3—The Duke of Wellington, on his deathbed in 1851; 4—Disraeli in 1849; 5—Lord Shaftesbury in 1868.

They'll Do It Every Time

By Jimmy Hatlo

Indecision And How to Overcome It

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

SOME of us remember the advice given in the Infantry Drill Manual: in case of doubt, doing anything at all is better than doing nothing at all.

It's good advice for home-makers as well as soldiers; and a good many women could profit by taking it to heart. Among them is Mrs. W. Both she and her husband agree that she finds it too hard to make up her mind.

She spends an hour trying to decide what letter to write first; starts by addressing an envelope to one friend; then lays this aside and begins a letter to a different one.

SHE SPENDS half a day trying to decide which dress to wear in the evening and is sometimes late because, after putting on one, she takes it off and substitutes another.

"My husband told me to consult you," she says, "Tell me how I can get rid of some of this chronic indecision."

Since the cause differs in various women, the cure may also be different and you'll have to experiment a bit, Mrs. W., in order to find what fits your case best. But there are several safe lines to try.

Mrs. L. used an alarm clock. When she began a debate with herself, she'd immediately set the alarm clock—it might be two minutes ahead, or 10; but she then raced herself to decide before the alarm went off.

MRS. B. depended on flipping a coin. Actually, it didn't make much difference whether she had peas or string beans for lunch,—why waste any time deciding? Heads? It's string beans!

In any case, make use of lists. If it's a matter of household routine, and you are wasting time deciding whether to clean the living room or the bedroom first, make out a list of chores and go right down the line, regardless.

Whatever you try—maybe you'll try all these schemes and others—stick to it. You'll find that it becomes a habit. You'll save a lot of time and a lot more anxiety.

Q. Sex education doesn't belong in the public schools.

A. I'm afraid you aren't facing the facts of life yourself. Dean Paul H. Landis of Washington State College states the view of other educators when he says, "It is not a question of whether young people will obtain sex education; it is a question of whether they will obtain it properly, in a matter-of-fact, impartial educational discussion, or whether they will first obtain it through direct solicitations, dirty stories, and bull sessions."

Q. What do you think about junior high school girls going out with senior high school boys?

A. Good idea, at least part of the time. It should not prevent them from taking in the social affairs of their own school.

Q. Is it wrong for young people to go to public dances?

A. Depends entirely on the dance, of course. Some are excellent, some good places to avoid. Maybe a group of you can have one of your own.

Q. How does one go about adopting a child?

A. States have different laws governing this. Ask your juvenile court, or in a large city phone the Family Service Association for information.

Here's a good schedule for cleaning linoleum: Dust daily. Damp mop with plain water once a week. Scrub with mild soap and water two or three times a year. Wax every two weeks. Use little water when mopping your floor, as the excess tends to seep through the edges or openings in the seams, causing mildewing or rotting of the backing material.

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

PLAYERS who insist on holding partners' bids open, if only to conceal their own weakness, have no grounds for complaint if they meet the fate that North met in the following deal:

South, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

	♠AQ10 ♥AK5 ♦K10 ♣AQ953

South.	West.	North.	East.
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
3 no trump	Double	Pass	Pass
Redouble	Pass	Pass

The contract of three no trump redoubled had a most unhappy ending. West opened the heart queen, declarer won and laid down the diamond king. Naturally, West allowed this to hold, and looked closely for his partner's follow-suit card. There is a conventional signal to be used in situations of this type. When dummy has a suit without an outside entry, one defender is supposed to "tell" the other how many cards he holds in dummy's suit. This is done by playing the lowest card from precisely three, or a higher card from any other holding. Thus, when East followed to the diamond king with the deuce, West knew that declarer had started with either two or four diamonds. Hence, when the second diamond was led, West went right up with the ace. If declarer had two diamonds, there was no need to hold off; if declarer had four diamonds it would do no good to hold off. It may be seen that the use of the convention kept dummy from taking even one trick.

To make a sad story short, the defenders collected two hearts, one spade, one diamond and two clubs, for a total of 1000 points.

The sort of response made by North in this case is, even today, too much in vogue. Players who make this sort of bid are actuated by two so-called reasons: First, they fear a short club suit in partner's hand, and second, they fear that a pass would reveal too much weakness to the opponents and permit them to reach a favorable contract.

Neither of these reasons is impressive. North should have passed out one club without a second thought.
